

Unemployment rate increases

Weather confuses jobs data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Job layoffs resulting from the severe winter and a big increase in the number of persons seeking work pushed the unemployment rate up to 7.5 per cent in February, the government reported today.

The jobless rate in January was 7.3 per cent. Nearly all of a 225,000 rise in persons out of work in February "reflected increased layoffs, probably the result of energy shortages," the Labor Department said.

The weather also was a factor in an increase of 220,000 in the number of full-time workers forced into part-time jobs because of production cuts resulting from economic problems.

The Labor Department gave this breakdown of unemployment in various job categories in February:

—Adult men, 5.8 per cent, up from 5.6 per cent in January.

—Adult women, 7.2 per cent, up from 6.9 per cent.

—Teen-agers, 18.5 per cent, down from 18.7 per cent.

—Whites, 6.7 per cent, the same as in January.

—Blacks and others, 13.1 per cent, up from 12.5 per cent.

—Heads of household, 4.9 per cent, up from 4.8 per cent.

—Full-time workers, 6.9 per cent, up from 6.7 per cent.

—Blue collar workers, 8.7 per cent, up from 8.4 per cent.

The Labor Department's monthly employment report showed that the main reason for the rise in unemployment was an unusually large increase in the nation's labor force, up 630,000 to a total of 96.1 million.

A Labor Department analyst said this partly resulted from a statistical correction for January when the size of the labor force dropped by 440,000 at the same time that the overall jobless rate declined from December's 7.8 per cent to 7.3 per cent.

He said the formula used in seasonally adjusting jobs figures probably distorted the reported figures on the decline in January and the increase in February in the size of the labor force. After discounting the big January decline and the February increase, he said the actual increase in the labor force since December was about 200,000.

Total employment rose more in February than unemployment. The Labor Department said there were 400,000 more jobs during the month for a total of 89 million, a total increase of 2.5 million above a year earlier.

Unemployment increased by 225,000 to a total of 7.2 million, following a decrease of more than half a million in January.

The Labor Department said there was a decline in the number of long-term unemployed so that the average duration of unemployment fell from 15.5 weeks in January to 14.7 weeks in February, the lowest in 21 months.

Honorable discharge being sought

Army now tells Blanchester soldier to stay home until mixup is resolved

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Seven years ago, Larry Florea says, the Army told him to go home and wait for orders, which never came. Now, after his arrest for being absent without leave, they've told him the same thing.

Florea was arrested last week and sent to Ft. Knox, an Army base about 40 miles south of here. Florea asked for an honorable discharge, saying he had tried without success for seven years to learn his Army status and had been waiting orders all that time.

The Army let Florea go home to Blanchester, Ohio, on Tuesday and gave him until Monday to return. Then, on Thursday, he finally got his orders. In effect, he was told to keep waiting.

Florea says he ordered to report to Ft. Eustis, Va., in 1971 but was sent home because his records had been lost. He says he went back a second time only to be sent home again.

"I have been checking in over the past seven years," Florea said Thursday. "In '71 I checked about every other month. In '72 I checked about every five months, each time I was told that the Army knew where I was at and not to worry."

Then recently, he applied for an honorable discharge so that he could get a Veterans Administration loan. The Defense Department advised him to turn himself in.

He did, and found that the Army had him listed as a deserter.

After going back to Ohio the second time, Florea got married, found a job and started raising a family. His arrest last week has caused him financial woes, according to his attorney, Jerry D. Bryant.

"He's receiving the same orders now he got seven years ago," Bryant said. "Is this going to end it? Will they make a determination? Will they let ride until the publicity dies down? I don't think they want to make a decision."

Florea was told Thursday that he can go back to work, and the 26 year-old mechanic said he was pleased at that prospect for financial reasons.

"I'm happy that I'm going to remain home, but I don't want to be kept around for another seven years," he said. "I don't know what I am."

Bryant said he has documents and affidavits to prove that Florea tried to learn his status during the past seven years.

Capt. Fred Bowman, commander of the personnel control facility at Ft. Knox, told Florea by telephone Thursday that the affidavits have been received.

"Due to the fact that most of the events in your case happened so long ago, it is taking time to locate the people you named as witnesses and obtain their statements as well as recover the pertinent documents involved."

"In view of this, I am extending your leave for an indefinite period to ensure that I have an opportunity to properly gather and review all the information about your case," Bowman said. "I will call you or send you a letter once a week to advise you of the status of the case and as new developments occur."

But Florea said he's not happy with that. He wants out, with an honorable discharge.

"I just don't know what they are going to do," he said.

His wife, Janet, 22, said she's confused about the whole matter and wants to see it resolved.

"They told him seven years ago to go home 'til further notice, and now they are telling him the same thing," she said. "He's glad to go back to work, but he feels like they're trying to put him off."

Bryant said his client is afraid the Army will call him back at any time. He said unless the matter is settled, satisfactorily for his client, a $5 million lawsuit may be filed against the government.

"The man has been put through some tricks by the Army," Bryant said. "Our No. 1 goal is still the honorable discharge."

Board grants 7.6 per cent hike

MT teachers get pay boost

After two months of study, the Fayette County Board of Education has granted salary increases to certified and uncertified employees.

"It's taken us two months to have all the committees from the various groups complete a study," Superintendent Guy Foster said. "Yesterday, we finally got everything put together."

In a meeting Thursday afternoon, the board adopted a proposal to increase the starting teacher's annual salary from $7,900 to $8,500. The wage hike represents a 7.6 per cent increase for all teachers.

Teachers with master degrees will now receive a starting wage of $9,307 a year. They did receive $8,650 to start.

"In comparison this salary schedule approximates the salary schedules of other area districts," Foster said.

Besides the 7.6 per cent pay increase, county teachers were granted additional benefits by the board.

One year was added to the experience schedule for teachers. The schedule did run through 11 years of service, and it now is set at 12 years.

All eligible teachers will also receive family plan Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance coverage, however that program will not become effective until next fall. District teachers presently have board-paid single coverage.

Non-certified employees received between a 6.4 and an 11 per cent salary increase depending upon positions.

Custodians were given the largest increases by the school board. Foster explained that studies showed janitors in the Miami Trace School District were being paid proportionately less than janitors in other area districts.

Besides the wage increase, the board extended the years of experience scale for non-certified employees. A three-year pay scale based on experience was replaced by a five to seven year pay scale depending again on the position of the employee.

The board also increased the rate of pay for county bus drivers on extra-curricular trips. Drivers did receive $9 for trips up to 50 miles. Now they will receive $17.

Cooks were granted a 50 cent per hour wage increase for working any banquets held at the school. Janitors, who work extra hours for school related activities, will receive their usual hourly wage plus $1 an hour.

No decision was made on wage increases for office personnel and administrators at Thursday's meeting. A meeting was set for 7:30 a.m. Monday in the Huntington Bank conference room to discuss those raises and an increment schedule for extra-curricular activities work.

All raises for certified, non-certified and administrative employees will be retroactive to Jan. 1.

Foster said employees will receive the back pay in a "lump amount" in the next two to four weeks.

The pay increases were made possible by the passage of a 4.7-mill operating levy in last November. However, Foster noted that all the money from the levy did not go to salaries. He said the school board plans to expend a proportionate amount of

No immediate plans set for 32-year-old structure

Woods purchases Central Grocery Co. building

The former Central Grocery Co. building, 208 E. Market St., has been purchased by a Washington C.H. real estate broker and land developer.

Donald P. Woods, 133 W. Circle Ave., announced today he has purchased the building which has been vacant since early September.

The purchase agreement between Woods and trustees of the W.M. Campbell trust was completed today.

Woods said he had no immediate plans for the 32-year-old building. "I'm going to look at several possibilities," he said.

The possible remodeling and renovation of the structure to house business offices is being considered by the new owner. "But I'm going to explore all avenues," added Woods, who maintains a real estate office just north of the building at 200 E. Market St.

Purchase of the building, which covers one-eighth of a block on E. Market St., had been considered by Washington C.H. City Council members. Plans were dropped when it was deemed that remodeling costs would be

Stray canine measure enforcement scheduled

JEFFERSONVILLE — Jeffersonville village council members Thursday night took steps to remedy problems created by roving packs of stray dogs.

Council members agreed to strictly enforce a village ordinance which will enable municipal officials to impound and possibly destroy stray dogs.

"We've got so many stray dogs now that we've just got to do something," said Jeffersonville Mayor Gordon McCarty.

Numerous complaints have been lodged by village residents concerning the animal problem during the past two months.

The ordinance (Section 91.05) will be enforced immediately by village maintenance personnel, the mayor explained.

"We need better service in handling the dog problem," McCarty said.

The village ordinance dealing with stray dogs states that "any dog that is not muzzled or on a leash found at-large in any public street or place shall be impounded and may be destroyed by the municipal authority without notice to the owner."

Copies of the ordinance will be posted at the municipal building and four Jeffersonville business places.

The remainder of Thursday's council meeting was devoted primarily to the need for a professional consulting engineer to work with Jeffersonville officials in solving village water department problems.

Nelson C. Baker, president of the village's board of public affairs, discussed the problems being faced by the water department in furnishing water supplies to village residents.

Baker said the quality of the village water supplies is diminishing because of several needed improvements.

He pointed out that the village's original water filtering system was designed to pump only 75,000 gallons of water per day. The system is presently pumping from 120,000 to 160,000 gallons of water a day.

Improvement to some existing waste mains to eliminate the potential waste of water supplies, the need to locate an additional water supply, and a need to determine if the village's existing wells are being pumped to full capacity were

Pike County store owner's luck fades in 3rd attempt

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a chance to boost his winnings to nearly half a million dollars, Pike County general store owner Dwight Long Jr. lost his golden touch in his third appearance on the Ohio lottery's Pot O Gold show Thursday night but added $7,000 to the $230,000 he won previously on the weekly televised giveaway.

Long, 46, made room for a 28-year-old Toledo housewife, Vergie Snyder, who won $40,000 Thursday night and gets to come back next week to try again for up to $250,000 in prize money.

Mrs. Snyder, who works part time as a cashier and hostess at a Ramada Inn, said her winnings will go to fulfill a longtime dream of the family—buying a five-bedroom home.

That would mean separate bedrooms for each of her four children and one for her and her husband, Robert, who works at the Perrysburg Chrysler plant.

She said when she comes back next week she'll bring the same good luck charms she had this week: a ring that her niece gave her to wear and "a little penny that fell out of my wallet before the show."

"I held it in my hand all during the show."

The $51,000 top prize in the Double Play game went to Joseph Waldman of Defiance. The $26,000 second prize was taken by Clifton Jolly of Monroeville, and Leatha Prowell of Norton won $11,000 in Double Play.

Other Pot O Gold winners included Cornelia Sarich of Cuyahoga Falls, $9,300; John Byers of West Newton, Ind. $8,900; Zenon Wiczorek of Cleveland, $8,200; and Charles Sturgeon of Salem, $6,500.

The following numbers were pulled in the weekly number drawing:

Pot O Gold: 059-773-89829.

Double Play: 896-07513-559291. Color: Blue.

BUILDING SOLD — The Central Grocery Co. building, which covers a one-eighth block area of E. Market Street, has been purchased by Donald P. Woods of Washington C.H. Woods said he has no immediate plans for the building.

Ohio Perspective

Lukens eyes gubernatorial race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Still awaiting word on Gov. James A. Rhodes' plans for 1978, some Republicans have started to break ranks and test the waters for 1978, some Republicans have started to break ranks and test the waters for their own gubernatorial bids.

The latest is Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, a former two-term congressman who ran for the GOP nomination in 1970 but was defeated.

Now 45, Lukens appears to be leaning away from the party's right wing where he once helped manage the unsuccessful presidential bid of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

He admits he is trying to broaden his appeal, and some of the legislation he is backing this year is an indication.

Among his bills are those that create an Ohio office on Spanish speaking affairs, and a series that would benefit the elderly by freezing their property taxes and increasing the income base of the homestead property tax exemption from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

Former Ambassador to India William B. Saxbe still is keeping pundits guessing as to whether he may get back into politics, despite earlier denials of being interested.

In Columbus recently, he commented he was having "withdrawal symptoms" after being out of the profession for the first time in 30 years.

"I'm thinking about forming a Politicians Anonymous, so that when one of us thinks about running for office again, we can get together and pray for each other," he quipped.

Saxbe, also a former U.S. senator and state attorney general, is being urged by some Republicans to seek his party's nomination for governor in 1978—regardless of the plans of incumbent GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Father Kenneth Grimes, the Catholic priest who serves as Ohio House chaplain, is taking a three-month leave to study in Rome.

He got a sendoff from House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe of New Boston, who recalled that he had once spent some time in Italy, but probably had different memories than Father Grimes will have when he completes his tour.

But the priest got the last laugh. "After 12 years with the Speaker," he told House members, "the Bishop thought I ought to go and get myself straightened out."

Flying around the nation in search of natural gas to fuel energy depleted Ohio, Gov. Rhodes had pleasant news when he traveled to Texas to talk to oil and gas producers.

His audience wasn't sure how to take him when he began his speech: "You're looking at one government official that has no rules or regulations for you."

At first, he received a sputtering of applause. Eventually though, realizing that Rhodes had no jurisdiction in Texas to sign new laws, the entire audience applauded his comment.

Opinion And Comment

Test of accountability

House members' commitment to the principle of public accountability is being put to a severe test. The House Commission on Administrative Review has recommended abolishing "slush fund" office accounts, and that would hurt.

Such accounts are cherished by members who like to have some money around that they can spend as they please, without having to tell anyone how they spent it. Sometimes the accounts, which may total more than a congressman's annual pay are used to hide special-interest payments. Reformers correctly argue that such things don't jibe with the idea of having a stringent ethics code, and they are right.

One curious piece of information concerning the slush funds has just come to light. Thanks to some as yet unexplained legislative sleight-of-hand near the end of the 1974 session, contribution of up to $100 to the so-called "newsletter" account of any representative may be deducted from taxable income.

These accounts ostensibly are used to pay for newsletters that inform constituents about their representative's activities. Ostensibly - but not, and there's the rub, necessarily. A lawmaker can pocket the money if he chooses, and at present no one can say him nay.

It is an intolerably lax arrangement, one that invites abuse. Paying for newsletters - even though they may contain a lot of personal puffery - is one thing; allowing the "newsletter" fund to be spent at will on anything at all is quite another. The House should make the distinction, and abide by it.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

Two sides in anti-litter war

Maybe the country should be arguing about terrorism in Argentina, or choosing sides in the war that will determine what particular tribal minority will be accorded majority status in Rhodesia or South West Africa. But the bigger struggle in the U.S. happens to be about garbage.

The present round in the off-again, on-again battle is between the champions of the returnable container and the "shredders" who would chop everything up before separating glass and metals for recycling. This is getting really bitter, particularly in New York state on Long Island and in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

As an interested - and affected - bystander in the fight, my emotional sympathies are with the returnable container faction. I get tired of picking up after the beer-drinking slobs who think nothing about tossing bottles, cans and torn six-pack holders in my driveway and along my fences.

The "shredders," however, seem to have the better of the argument when they say that litter collection can return a profit without causing all that trouble to housewives and the proprietors of shopping centers, who would lose time or money, as the case might be, in getting bottles back to a distant beverage company.

Bottlers say that it would cost them millions to stay in business if they were forced to pay for the round trips of thousands of containers. The "shredders," on the other hand, look on the collection of litter as a chance for coining a neat profit. The aluminum industry, for example, now boasts that its toll-free consumer hot line (800-223-6830) has resulted in a voluntary return of 25 per cent of all the aluminum cans manufactured in the U.S.

There are 2,200 recycling centers in the country, almost double the number of a year ago. The 17 cents that is now being paid for a pound of scrap aluminum is enough to have hundreds of kids combing the roads for a type of garbage that can be turned into gold. Altogether, some $26 million were paid to collectors in aluminum scrap in 1975.

One out of every four aluminum cans produced in the U.S. is made from recycled stuff. To fashion a can from recycled material takes less than five per cent of the energy required to make a can from mined bauxite in the first place.

The recovery of aluminum is part of a wider campaign to shred and recycle just about everything. Ames, Iowa, is baling its waste paper, screening its discarded metals by magnetic and mechanical separation devices, and using its nondescript refuse as fuel to make electricity. Baltimore County in Maryland is using magnetic separation for ferrous waste, and its glass and aluminum recovery will be operational some time this spring. Bridgeport, Conn., Brockton, Mass., St. Louis, Chicago, San Diego County, Calif., Pompano Beach and Dade County Fla., and the whole state of Delaware are either in the shakedown stages of recovery for recycling, or are in the business of signing contracts or taking bids for the building of plants.

The aluminum industry has just signed papers with the city of New Orleans for the purchase of all the aluminum cans and old pots and pans and garden furniture that can be separated from the rest of New Orleans' trash. The city expects to have full recovery of waste in operation sometime in May.

New Orleans has some fascinating machinery either in operation or on order - a three-way hopper which directs refuse from the shredders to the air classifiers, electro-magnets for ferrous recovery, and a so-called Triple S. unit for air classification.

When the Hempstead, N.Y., recycling plant gets going, it will process some 2,000 tons of garbage a day. The town of Hempstead plans to sell its glass and metals and use the remaining garbage to power a Long Island Lighting Company electric generator.

The banners of the one-way bottle, while they are well-meaning, can offer nothing to compete with the profit-making lure that is animating the recyclers. But the battle between the two sides is just beginning. Since both sides want to rid the world of litter, bystanders in the war can hardly lose.

Women get chance at Navy sea duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a court suit, the Navy is moving to give women wider opportunities for sea duty.

The Navy is circulating word that it has prepared legislation to change current laws that prohibit assignment of women to vessels other than hospital ships and transports.

Navy women have been beached since 1975 when the last hospital ship, the Sanctuary, was retired.

A message from headquarters to fleet and shore stations said: "The proposed change ... will permit the Secretary of the Navy to prescribe a greater variety of shipboard duty to which women members of the naval service may be assigned."

But Navy women still would be barred from serving in combat.

The proposal, which must be approved by Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Congress, marks a victory for Navy women who have been pushing for equality with Navy men.

Pentagon sources acknowledged the new move was spurred by a federal suit filed here by six Navy enlisted women and officers, who claim Navy restrictions infringe their constitutional rights.

The Navy message said the proposed law change would permit assignment of women "to temporary duty on any vessels not engaged in combat missions, and to permanent duty on vessels similar to hospital ships and transports which would not be expected to be assigned combat missions."

Officials refused to elaborate when asked for details on what kinds of ships would be likely to receive women for their crews. The language of the message suggested Navy women might be placed on combat type vessels, as well as various classes of support ships, in peacetime.

Energy committee reduces hours

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Energy Emergency Management Committee has reduced its 24-hour operation to 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, state development Director James Duerk said Thursday.

Duerk said the center handled as many as 2,000 calls a day during the height of the state's energy crisis.

Duerk said crisis center telephones will remain in operation and the center can be put back in full operation if severe weather or energy conditions recur.

Dear Abby:

Blacks upset

about mixed marriage

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is in her senior year at college. She is a beautiful girl who has won many honors and beauty contests, but she never let it go to her head. She was always very popular with both boys and girls, and she never gave us any trouble.

She wrote to tell us she plans to get married after she graduates in June. The man (from what she says about him) is a fine person. He is her college professor.

My husband is heartbroken and says if she marries him she can't set foot in our house again. You see, he is of a different color. I also feel that she would be better off marrying her own kind, but I would never turn her away from our door.

How can I get my husband to change his mind and accept our daughter's husband even if he is white? We are black.

MICHIGAN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Remind your husband that for a people who have suffered from racial discrimination for centuries to insist on "reverse discrimination" in choosing a mate makes no sense. He'll lose his daughter and gain nothing for his race.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old divorced woman who came to visit Chicago from a foreign country last October. Without going into detail, I find myself now in a most distressing circumstance.

I am confirmed to be pregnant. The man has left me, and I am without friends, without funds and no source of income.

I will not submit to an abortion as it is against my religious principles. Where can I get help? I feel my obligation to give life to this child, but I cannot see my way clear to be a proper mother and raise a child.

Please, please help me.

STRANDED IN CHICAGO

DEAR STRANDED: Call BIR-THRIGHT - 312-233-0353. A courteous, understanding woman will answer all your questions and offer suggestions that are alternatives to abortion. At no cost to you, you will be offered medical care for yourself, and arrangements for the adoption of your child. Counseling is available, too. I urge you to call them at once. Good luck and God bless. Please let me know how you make out. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has two daughters, ages 7 and 5. The 5-year-old strangled her cat with a ribbon and seemed very pleased with herself. When I asked her whatever made her do such a thing, she said, "My brain told me to do it," and she showed no remorse whatsoever.

The 7-year-old confided that she has been stealing money from her friends and school supplies from school. She says she knows it is wrong, but she can't stop doing it.

The girls' mother knows all this, and says she doesn't see anything "unusual" about it. ("All kids steal and kill animals-it's just a part of growing up.") She even hides these facts from her husband.

I am worried sick. Tell me what do do before it is too late.

AFRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: The mother and daughters need treatment, and as a friend who's "worried sick," you should tell the woman's husband what's going on immediately!

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1977. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1681, England's King Charles II granted William Penn a charter for what is now Pennsylvania.

On this date: In 1789, the first U.S. Congress convened in Federal Hall in New York City but had to adjourn because there was not a quorum.

In 1829, the White House was mobbed by an unruly crowd at the inauguration of President Andrew Jackson.

In 1917, Republican Representative Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman to serve in Congress.

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt announced his New Deal program in an inauguration address.

In 1971, terrorists in Turkey kidnapped four U.S. airmen and threatened to shoot them unless ransom of $400,000 was paid. The ransom was not paid, and the fliers were released five days later.

Ten years ago: A presidential commission urged major changes in the military draft, including a limited lottery and an end to most student deferments.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union signed an agreement with Libya to jointly develop and refine Libyan oil. The pact was seen as a pressure tactic against western oil companies.

One year ago: The United States warned Cuba not to interfere in a conflict between Rhodesia and Mozambique, as the Cubans had done in Angola.

Today's birthday: South African singer Miriam Makeba is 45.

Thought for today: All my possessions for a moment of time. — The purported last words of Queen Elizabeth I, 1533-1603.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO CASE NO. 77 CIV 2

Fulton & Goss, Inc. vs.

Fred J. Evans, et al.
FRED J. EVANS and JANE DOE, UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF FRED J. EVANS, whose last place of residence is unknown will take notice that on January 3rd, 1977, Fulton & Goss, Inc., filed its Complaint in Case Number 77 CIV 2 in the Court of Common Pleas of Fayette County, Ohio, alleging that the defendants, FRED J. EVANS and JANE DOE, UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF FRED J. EVANS, have or claim to have an interest in the real estate described below:

SITUATED in the City of Washington Court House, County of Fayette, and State of Ohio, and described as follows, to wit:

Being Lot Numbered Thirty (30) in Avondale Add. to said City, for a more particular description, reference is made to Plat Book A, page 575 Fayette County Recorder's Office.

(PRELIMINARY COMMONLY KNOWN AS 1010 WILLARD STREET, WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, OHIO 43160)

The petitioner further alleges that by reason of default of the defendants in the payment of a promissory note, according to its tenor, the conditions of a concurrent mortgage deed given to secure the payment of said note and conveying the premises described, have been broken, and the same has become absolute.

The petitioner prays that the defendants named above be required to answer and set up their interest in said real estate or be forever barred from asserting the same, for foreclosure of said mortgage, the marshalling of any liens, and the sale of said real estate, and the proceeds of said sale applied to the payment of petitioner's claim in the proper order of its priority, and for such other and further relief as is just and equitable.

The defendants named above are required to answer on or before the 11th day of April, 1977.

Fayette County Retired Teachers add new members

Thirty-five per cent of the voting population in Ohio is people over 60 years of age; therefore, it is important that persons in this age group acquaint themselves with legislation which affects their welfare. This point was made to the Fayette County Retired Teachers in attendance at the association luncheon meeting at the Terrace Lounge Thursday, March 3.

Mr. C. James Grothaus, assistant executive director of member benefits for the Ohio Retirement System (STRS) gave a clear and comprehensive explanation of the medical, health, and death benefits which are now provided by STRS-Aetna Medical Health Care Plan. He also explained the provisions of some bills which are being drawn-up for presentation at this session of the legislature.

Mr. Wilson Webb, president, conducted the business meeting at which time Mrs. Marjorie Mayhew and Miss Lenore Young were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Harry Craig gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Willard Bitzer the treasurer's report. Mr. Kenneth Craig, legislative chairman, reported on current legislation of interest to the group.

Mrs. Leonard Stephenson gave the invocation preceding the luncheon. The Misses Jeanette and Josephine Roush decorated the tables with flowers and plants from their greenhouse.

Two guests present were: Mrs. Nancy Cummings and Mrs. Marian Tossey, Director of District 6 of the Ohio Retired Teacher's Association.

White Oak Grove Women plan activities

The White Oak Grove United Methodist Women held the regular meeting in the church basement Wednesday evening. Mrs. Virgil Hardman, the vice-president, called the meeting to order with the call to worship. The roll call was answered by "What does Lent mean to you". The usual reports were given and approved.

Plans were made to attend the program "An evening with a Missionary" at Madison Mills church at 7:30 p.m. March 8.

The group was urged to support and assist with the weekend program March 26 and March 27 to be presented at the church by students from the Wesley Foundation of Kentucky Eastern University.

It was announced the group will be co-hostesses with New Holland ladies for the "Cluster" meeting to be held at the church March 30. The units will sponsor the Easter Breakfast after the sunrise service.

The cook book committee urged each member to submit recipes by April 12. The plans will be completed at the next meeting for the cook book.

Mrs. Terry Miracle, Mrs. Charles Ellis and Mrs. Robert Lanman were appointed to work on the plans for a bus trip.

The program topic, "Relationship to God," was presented with Scripture and a meditation. A list of questions was given to each person dealing with their personal relationship with God and of their relationship to other people. After a period of time for studying the questions, a discussion period followed. Each member was instructed to further study the questions at home. The meeting was closed by prayer.

Snack refreshments were served at a long table using the St. Patrick Day theme. A social hour followed.

Youth Activities

ROUGH RIDERS 4-H

The first meeting of the Rough Riders 4-H Club was held Feb. 28 in Wayne Hall in Good Hope, and called to order by Lynne Acton, outgoing president. Pledges were led by Laurie Merritt.

New officers elected were Rob Corzatt, president; Mike Dunton, vice president; Lynne Acton, secretary; Tammy Arnold, treasurer; Rhonda Medary, historian; Bill Miller, news reporter; Eddie Braden, advisor, reported that new classes have been added to the Fayette County Fair 4-H Horse Show.

There will be a yearling class for the weanlings that were shown in production last year, also an additional reigning class. A horse judging clinic is planned at the fairgrounds April 30. The clinic will be sponsored by the Fayette County 4-H Council.

Rob Corzatt, Roger Dunton and Eddie Braden will represent the Rough Riders.

Advisors Mr. Braden and Mr. Eddie Corzatt served refreshments. The next meeting will be March 28 in Wayne Hall, when Kelly Lane and Bill Miller will bring treats.

Whole wheat bread

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD — It comes in varying hues, depending on the proportion of whole wheat and white flour used.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Whole wheat bread comes in varying hues, depending on whether it is made entirely with whole wheat flour or with their addition of some white flour. We get most requests for recipes for the former, so here goes.

There's an interesting all whole wheat loaf in a fine new cookbook, "Good Bread" by Barbara Joan Hansen (Macmillan). This recipe came to Barbara from a young man in Taos Ski Valley who was into "health" foods and who, with his brothers, baked the bread for a restaurant. We find this loaf stays moist, slices well and has great flavor. Here's our adaptation of the recipe.

ALL WHOLE WHEAT LOAF

1 1/2 cups warm (105 to 115 degrees) water

1 envelope active dry yeast

3 1/2 to 4 cups fine or medium-fine whole wheat flour

2 teaspoons salt

2 tablespoons molasses

1/4 cup hulled raw sunflower seeds

In a large warm bowl sprinkle the yeast over the water; stir to dissolve.

Stir in 1 1/2 cups of the flour. Cover and let stand in a draft-free warm (80 degrees) place until mixture about half fills the bowl and is very bubbly and spongy underneath — 1 hour. Beat down.

Stir in the salt, oil, molasses and sunflower seeds. Gradually stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on a smooth surface floured with whole wheat flour; knead until smooth and elastic — about 10 minutes. Place in an oiled bowl; turn to oil top; cover and let stand in a draft-free warm (80 degrees) place until doubled — 1 hour. Punch down; knead briefly. Shape into a loaf and place in an oiled 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Let rise in a draft-free warm (80 degrees) place until dough is as high as pan — about 1 hour. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned and top sounds hollow when tapped with knuckles — 30 minutes. Turn out on a wire rack; turn right side up; cool completely. Makes 1 loaf.

Note: If the bottom of the loaf is pale and quite soft when you turn it out, slip the loaf, bottom-side-up, back into the pan and continue baking until browned — perhaps another 10 minutes.

(Adapted from "Good Bread" by Barbara Joan Hansen, published by Macmillan.)

Choral Society

has 3 rehearsals

In preparation for the Fayette County Choral Society's concert of Sunday, March 20 in First Christian Church, 232 N. North St., members will meet in the church for the three final rehearsals, March 7, March 14, and March 18.

At these rehearsals, a chamber orchestra will accompany the Faure "Requiem" which is the major choral works of the March 20 program.

The chorus will sing a group of shorter secular and sacred pieces and the orchestra will play separate pieces by Mozart and Handel.

Small city awaiting Carter visit

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — President Carter won't find the down home ambience of small Southern towns when he visits in this Massachusetts mill town later this month for the first of his "meet-the-people" trips.

But Clinton's problems — unemployment, inflation and racial issues — won't be new to him.

During his March 16-17 visit, he'll participate in a St. Patrick's Day celebration and witness a special town meeting staged for his benefit. He'll also find a town hard-pressed by a slow economy, and a community troubled by racial friction.

"We're a depressed area," says Alan Jewett, chairman of the board of selectmen. He drives 35 miles daily to Boston for work.

The dusty redbrick buildings which housed the largest gingham mill in the world in the 1880s still stand, but life here is no longer quite the same.

More than 800 persons out of a work force of 10,000 are jobless — an eight per cent unemployment rate that is higher than either the state or national averages. Between 1973 and 1974, the town's payrolls dropped from $30 million to $23 million.

For the most part, the town's residents are Roman Catholic Irish, and at the end of the day the men like to relax over boilermakers at the bar of the Old Timer's restaurant off High Street.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quick now, tell me the type of series in which you may hear such classic lines as: "Believe me, Charlie Seville never put out no contract on no cop." A new police show? Right. It's "Dog and Cat," which premieres Saturday on ABC after an old cop show, "Starsky and Hutch," which starts after a new cop show, "Future Cop." All this marks progress.

The "Future Cop" premiere stars Ernest Borgnine and John Amos as veteran gendarmes with a robot partner. It wasn't available for a preview. But ABC claims it isn't a triangular "Holmes and Yoyo."

"Dog and Cat" was ready for advance inspection, and we'd describe it as kind of a lighthearted "Police Woman."

It stars Kim Basinger, who has the Bionic Woman's moves and flowing tress but no bionics, and Lou Antonio, a personable thespian in his late 30s. They play a pair of undercover cops in a big city.

Most cop capers have a gimmick. This has three. Kim, cast as a Georgia-born lawperson, is kiddingly called "hillbilly" by her veteran partner. Her beau is a surfer. And she drives a beat-up red VW.

Saturday's opus doesn't show the beau. But it does show our heroes trying to solve a jewel-smuggling case and a double murder, and learn if and why veteran jewel fence Charlie Seville wants them deadened.

Oh, yes a once-honest fellow undercover cop also is involved. He is a swinger, drives a blue Corvette, wears the best threads and drinks fine scotch. He tries to confuse their pursuit of truth.

I won't reveal why he goes wrong. But toward the end, you may want to hear his explanation: "I met a lady. She didn't buy my act ... I went dumb for a while. I needed something big for her."

$3941***

Definitely a No. 1 price. Another reason could be room ... a major reason you buy a wagon in the first place. Volare gives you more room than any other American compact wagon. More room in the passenger compartment, more room in the cargo area. Volare even has 75% the cargo space of an average of full size wagons. No wonder America is saying, "Thanks for giving us what we need in a station wagon. Thanks for giving us Volare."

Price and room. Not one ... but two reasons why Volare is on top.

Warnke opponents ready for action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservatives are stirring up opposition to Paul C. Warnke as the Senate prepares for a long debate on his nomination as chief U.S. arms negotiator.

At least 10 members of the Senate Armed Services Committee declared their opposition to Warnke as the Senate prepared today to begin a debate that may go on for four days.

Separate votes were set for next Wednesday on President Carter's twin nomination of Warnke as director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and as head of the U.S. delegation to strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union.

With strong support from President

Carter, Warnke is expected to win Senate confirmation by a comfortable margin.

As the Senate prepared to begin its debate, members were being flooded with bulk mail urging that Warnke be denied confirmation.

The Coalition Against Unilateral Disarmament, formed to fight the nominations, sent about a half million letters to conservatives in an effort to pressure the Senate, an officer of the group said.

The letter mailed out by the group asks those who receive it to sign an enclosed printed card that expresses opposition to Warnke. The recipient is then to mail the card to a senator.

Warnke, 57, a Washington lawyer, was an assistant secretary of defense in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. He has been under fire for statements and writings since leaving the Pentagon in 1969.

Warnke has opposed major new U.S. weapons systems and at one time recommended unilateral restraint in U.S. arms development in hopes it would bring a reciprocal weapons cutback by Russia.

In his confirmation hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and in a later Armed Services Committee hearing, Warnke said he rejects "any concept of unilateral disarmament."

"I am a strong advocate of arms control," he said. "I'm also a strong advocate of a strong national defense. I believe the two to be totally consistent and indeed complementary."

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Thursday he will oppose the "new Warnke" to be chief SALT negotiator.

A low pressure system over the Mississippi Valley feeding warm moist air into Ohio is expected to keep rain falling over the state at least until tonight. The rains will diminish to light showers before ending.

Winds will become quite strong and gusty today as the low intensifies northeastward over the Great Lakes. Temperatures will continue relatively mild with highs in the 50s and low 60s through Saturday. Lows tonight will be in the 30s.

Skies will be partly cloudy Saturday.

Three thefts, vandal report checked by police, deputies

Area law enforcement officers are investigating three thefts and one vandalism incident which were reported Thursday.

Robert Massie, Cook-Yankeetown Road, told the Fayette County Sheriff's Department that a chain saw valued at $229.95 was taken from his front porch. The time of the theft was unknown.

Sheriff's deputies were also contacted by Chester Littler, 8839 Evans Road. He reported that his mailbox, valued at $25, was damaged by vandals

Wednesday night.

Ron Knisley, 622 S. Fayette St., told Washington C.H. police officers that someone stole a battery from his automobile which was parked behind his residence. The battery was valued at $25.

Everett G. Stone, 517 Third St., told police officers that a citizen's band radio antenna was stolen from his car which was parked in front of his residence. The antenna was valued at $50.

Boosters set candy sale

A candy sale has been launched as a fund-raising project by the Miami Trace High School band boosters club.

The sale, which started today, is being headed by co-chairmen Mrs. Ray Jinks and Mrs. Robert Weber. Prizes will be awarded to the top three salesmen.

Money raised through the candy sale and other projects through the year will be used for the awards program and for the upkeep of band uniforms. The boosters club is also scheduled to discuss the purchase of new overlays for the band uniforms at its April 7 meeting.

Band director Aaron Spaulding

presented several reports to the band boosters at the organization's monthly meeting Thursday night.

Spaulding said the annual band camp will be held at the Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School in Wilmington Aug. 7-13. He also said the annual band concert will be held May 5.

The boosters club will staff a concessions stand at a district band competition April 23 at Miami Trace High School.

Club president Mrs. Ralph Vanzant appointed an advance planning committee consisting of Mrs. Jack Merriman, Miss Jean Deakyne, Andy Anderson and Mrs. Norman Chaney.

Westinghouse settles feud

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three power companies that wanted to force Westinghouse Electric Corp. to honor a contract to supply uranium at one-fourth its current cost have settled instead for cash, equipment and advice.

The difference between the contracted price of $9 a pound and the present price of about $40 a pound would have cost Westinghouse an estimated $2 billion over the next 20 years.

Westinghouse still faces suits from 24 utilities in Virginia and Sweden. Those cases have not yet been heard.

Allegheny County Judge I. Martin Wekselman, who mediated the settlement and announced it Thursday, said the economy of southwestern Pennsylvania had been spared a severe blow.

"The people affected by this case were not just stockholders and chairmen of corporate boards. Thousands of citizens' jobs and the interests of all consumers of energy were at stake," said Wekselman.

Duquesne Light, Ohio Edison and Pennsylvania Power companies had asked the county court to force Westinghouse to provide uranium for their power plants at the price contracted for in the mid-1960s.

Westinghouse had declared it was relieved of contractual obligations because unforeseen market conditions pushed the cost up to about $40 a pound.

Under the agreement, the giant electric equipment maker will give the utilities cash, products and technical advice instead.

Murder conference scheduled March 10

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ohio and Kentucky law enforcement officials will begin a series of meetings March 10 to look into as many as 16 recent unsolved slayings of young women in the Greater Cincinnati area.

Dr. Frank Cleveland, Hamilton County Coroner who called the said he would not discuss the cases in public nor list the names of the victims. Cleveland said he called the meeting to see whether the cases are linked in any way.

"All are the same general type cases, the majority of victims were nude, without identification and dumped some place," Cleveland said.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, in a copyrighted story, reported there may be a connection between last May's Mississippi marijuana seizure, the killing in Cincinnati of alleged federal drug informant Boyd McQuearry, and some of the unsolved murders.

The Enquirer quoted sources as reporting that at least four of the victims knew each other, and one victim knew Peter Servizi, one of two men convicted of conspiracy to commit McQuearry's murder.

Invited to the meetings are law enforcement officials from Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Butler, Clinton and Clermont counties, Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and northern Kentucky.

The meeting was sparked by the latest killing, Elaine Marie Bear, 15, of Cincinnati. Her nude body was found in Clinton County last weekend. She had been missing since Jan. 15, police said.

Clinton County Coroner Dr. Edwin P. Hiatt, said the victim had apparently been dumped in a creek near Wilmington, Ohio. Results of an autopsy showed Miss. Bear had been strangled, apparently by a cord which was a half-inch in diameter.

Two bodies have been found in Anderson Township in Hamilton County. The body of Dorothy Sullivan was found with a slit throat in a gravel pit last Aug. 28, while another murder victim Mary Ruth Hopkins was found last June 30, in a wooded area. She had been strangled according to police.

"These are all fresh cases, not four or five years old, which occurred in the southwest Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky area," Cleveland said.

He declined to speculate whether all the victims might have known each other or might have been killed by the same person.

Decency rally held in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A woman at the "Ohioans for Decency" rally in porno king Larry Flynt's home town thrust her Bible up to block the photograph of a nude man being held behind her by counter protesters.

She and the other rally participants on the Ohio Statehouse steps Thursday were urging an end to pornography and obscenity—including, apparently, Michelangelo's rendering from the Vatican's Sistine Chapel.

carefully masked to conceal Adam's genitals — was held by a supporter of Hustler magazine, who joined magazine employees and publisher Flynt's wife and brother at the rally.

The Bible-toting, hymn-singing supporters of Ohioans for Decency were asked to circulate petitions calling for an "immediate crackdown on organized crime and the traffic in pornography" by Atty. Gen. William Brown.

Buckner, Dierker, Kingman bite dust

Injuries basking in Florida sunshine

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The injury jinx is undergoing spring training, too ... and right now it seems to be in better shape than the ballplayers.

The baseball camps have been open only a few days but the trainers are already working overtime. That must be why they call it spring training.

Thursday's list of victims included pitcher Larry Dierker of the St. Louis Cardinals, first basemen Bill Buckner and Larry Bittner and pitcher Bill Bonham of the Chicago Cubs, outfielder Dave Kingman of the New York Yankees and pitchers Mike Cuellar and Skip Pitlock and outfielder Bob Jones of the California Angels.

Dierker's injury was the most serious. The veteran righthander, acquired from the Houston Astros in an off-season trade, suffered a broken bone in his left leg and will miss the start of the season next month.

Dierker, who compiled a 137-117 record in 12 seasons with the Astros, will be sidelined from 4-6 weeks. Vern Rapp, the Cardinals' new manager, had designated Dierker as the starting pitcher for the opening exhibition game next week and the likely starter on opening day as well.

Buckner, who came to the Cubs from Los Angeles in the Rick Monday deal, was lost for at least two weeks when he suffered a fractured left index finger while fielding a ground ball. Buckner is still limping from ankle surgery last October but said he would be ready for the season opener.

Bittner was injured when a ground ball struck him on the lip and Bonham suffered a muscle pull in his right thigh while covering first base.

Cuellar, a 39-year-old lefthander attempting to hook on with the Angels after being cut loose by the Baltimore Orioles, needed four stitches to close a spike wound in his left heel when he collided with outfielder Rusty Torres. He will be out of action for at least a week.

Pitlock and Jones came up with sore elbows, joining Cuellar on the sidelines, while outfielder Don Baylor continues to be troubled by a pulled side muscle and infielder Bobby Grich has missed the first week of workouts with a sore back.

Kingman suffered an injury to his wallet as well as his left instep, which was bruised when he was struck by a delivery — get this — from the Mets' pitching machine.

Earlier, the club invoked the automatic renewal clause in Kingman's contract and cut his pay the allowable 20 per cent. For precedent-lovers, the Mets didn't cut Tom Seaver's salary when they invoked the renewal clause a year ago.

"We know the way it is now," said General Manager Joe McDonald. "If he (Kingman) doesn't sign, then why should he make the full money?"

McDonald also said the Mets had made their final offer to Kingman. "I've laid my cards on the table and I've made my offer," he said. "It's a firm offer and pretty strong."

"Well," replied Kingman, "he said the first offer they made me was reasonable. This is a reasonable final offer."

In recovery room news, pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Boston Red Sox, whose surgically mended Achilles tendon came up tender and puffy Wednesday, was much improved and able to do his scheduled running.

On the signing front, outfielder Ken Singleton agreed "in principle" to a five-year pact with the Orioles, the Cleveland Indians signed first baseman Boog Powell, the New York Yankees signed outfielder Lou Piniella, the Astros completed their 40-man roster by signing catcher Joe Ferguson, second baseman Rob Andrews and pitcher Doug Kniecny, and the Milwaukee Brewers came to terms with pitchers Bill Castro and Kevin Kobel.

Elsewhere, unsigned shortstop Dave Concepcion of the world champion Cincinnati Reds ended a deepening mystery as to his whereabouts when he checked into camp after missing the first day of workouts.

Cleveland General Manager Phil Seghi, fed up with the club's holdout situation, slapped a daily fine of $100 on absent designated hitter Rico Carty and renewed the contracts of pitcher Stan Perzankowski and infielder-outfielder Orlando Gonzalez at 20 per cent cuts.

And no baseball roundup would be complete if Charlie Finley weren't at money odds with one of his Oakland A's. This time it's reliever Jim Todd, one of 13 unsigned A's, who couldn't reach an agreement with Finley and said the owner told him any players who don't sign will be traded.

Willie Mays in Angel camp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Say, hey, who is that in a California Angels' uniform?

Why, it is Willie Mays. Willie Mays Hicens, that is.

The Angels' rookie not only is a sound-alike for the former great outfielder who played for the San Francisco Giants and New York Mets, but is a look-alike — judging from the way he hit Sunday.

Hicens, a first baseman who was the 1976 Texas League home run champion at El Paso, hit a towering homer as the Angels held a full-scale workout at their Holtville, Calif., camp.

The blast highlighted a successful hitting drill, according to California Manager Norm Sherry.

Outfielder Joe Rudi, a celebrated free-agent acquisition in the off-season, made his spring training camp debut as Sherry welcomed 46 players to the workout.

Other spring training camps also were in full swing.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds, joined by a disatisfied Pete Rose, held their first workouts over the weekend. Rose, who has threatened to play out the option year of his contract, joined 29 pitchers and catchers. The only absentee at Tampa, Fla., was relief pitcher Pedro Borbon, who was granted permission to arrive late due to a family illness.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., outfielder Dave Kingman arrived at the New York Mets' camp just as Sunday's workout was ending. Kingman, the Mets' lone unsigned regular, refused to talk to anyone, including General Manager Joe McDonald or reporters.

Second baseman Phil Garner, embroiled in a contract dispute with Oakland owner Charles O. Finley, was the only prominent no-show at the A's camp in Mesa, Ariz.

Concepcion arrives in camp, appears ready to sign

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — All-star shortstop Dave Concepcion, who had warned the Cincinnati Reds he was seeking a hefty pay boost, today said he is confident he will be back in uniform for the world champions.

"I think I'm going to sign," said the 28-year-old infielder after missing Thursday's opening day workouts.

Concepcion checked into the team hotel four hours after the first full squad drills concluded. His arrival snuffed speculation that the lanky Venezuelan, one of five unsigned Reds, was going to stage a holdout.

Club officials said efforts to reach Concepcion during the past two months were unsuccessful.

Concepcion said there was no reason for concern.

"Sparky (Reds manager Sparky Anderson) was not worried about me. He knows I'm the kind of guy who doesn't need too much spring training. I'm kind of skinny and never put any weight on," Concepcion said, explaining his reason for arriving late.

Concepcion said he planned to meet with Reds General Manager Dick Wagner today to discuss a long-term contract package. Concepcion downplayed a recent report that he was demanding a deal in excess of $1 million.

"I don't want to be a millionaire. I just want them to be fair with me," he said.

The seven-year veteran hit .281 in 1976 while leading the club in game-winning hits with 15.

An all-star game starter for the second straight year, Concepcion said he is looking for a contract spanning "at least two or three years."

He added, "the writers say I am the best shortstop in baseball. I think I deserve a good contract."

Concepcion said the salary structure has dramatically changed over the past year, due mainly to the bidding competition for free agents.

"Everything has gone up out of sight. The price of players, the cost of living, everything. I just rented a car for $250. Last year I paid $170," he said.

Forty-three of the club's 45 players invited to camp are now working out, including 13-year veteran Pete Rose, who remained unsigned.

Second baseman Joe Morgan, who last year became only the second player in history to win successive National League most valuable player awards, is due in Sunday. Centerfielder Cesar Geronimo was expected today.

Morgan is finishing winter college classes at his home in Oakland while Geronimo encountered visa problems in the Dominican Republic.

Wagner said negotiations for four of the unsigned players — pitchers Gary Nolan, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy and Concepcion — will resume next week when player agent Jerry Kapstein arrives.

Rose's attorney, Reuben Katz of Cincinnati, is also scheduled to meet with Reds officials next week.

Cavaliers upset Wake Forest

Virginia playing Cinderella again

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs are not always the survival of the fittest, as Virginia's Cavaliers proved last year.

Now it seems they want to prove it again this year.

That improbable circumstance surfaced Thursday night when the last-place Cavaliers upset second-seeded Wake Forest 59-57 and vaulted into tonight's ACC semifinals.

Virginia, of course, was the Cinderella team of the ACC last year. The Cavaliers finished sixth during the regular season but upset three teams, including regular-season champion North Carolina in the finals.

"We've come a long way," Virginia Coach Terry Holland said Thursday night, echoing a similar thought he expressed last season. "What happens tomorrow and the next day will tell you how far."

Virginia will play in tonight's semifinals against Clemson, an 82-74 victor over Duke Thursday night.

North Carolina, the regular-season champion, faces North Carolina State, which beat Maryland 82-72.

Three other leagues held playoff games Thursday night.

In the opening round of the Metro-7, Georgia Tech beat Florida State 72-67, Cincinnati trimmed St. Louis 76-68 and Memphis State whipped Tulane 94-80. In the Southwest Conference, Houston defeated Texas A&M 96-77 and Texas Tech stopped Baylor 66-57 in semifinal action. In the Big Eight semis, Missouri crushed Oklahoma 90-75 and Kansas State beat Kansas 80-67.

Elsewhere, Providence defeated Fairfield 44-31 and Holy Cross turned back Connecticut 89-77 in the New England Division of the ECAC playoffs and St. John's whipped Manhattan 73-64 and Seton Hall stopped Army 77-71 in the Metropolitan Division. The winners advance to Saturday's championship round, which will automatically qualify them for the NCAA playoffs.

In other games, third-ranked Michigan beat Illinois 87-72 and clinched a tie for the Big 10 championship and ninth-rated Minnesota edged Wisconsin 64-61.

Palmer eyes trade talk

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Palmer, the Baltimore Orioles' three-time American League Cy Young Award winner, was not happy about being at the opening day of training camp.

"This club stinks. They're lucky if they finish fourth. This field is in the worst shape I've ever seen it. If you're on a major league team, you ought to at least have a major league training facility," Palmer said Monday.

Then he said what was really bothering him.

"Management is being completely unrealistic about my contract and if they don't want to treat me fairly, then I don't want to stay here," Palmer told the Baltimore Sun.

Palmer said he was serious about wanting to renegotiate his contract with the Orioles and his preliminary request was for $1.5 million for five years.

"He (General Manager Hank Peters) was shocked at those numbers," Palmer said. The 31-year-old righthander admitted later that he might settle for about $260,000 per year.

Palmer now has a three-year contract, plus an option year.

Circleville girls grab first

Circleville finished out its perfect league season with a first place showing at the Miami Trace girls basketball tournament last night.

The Tigers whipped a tough Hillsboro team 47-36 after trailing most of the game.

Madison Plains copped third place in the tourney by defeating Washington C.H. 47-38.

Hillsboro managed to tie Circleville after one quarter and then move ahead after halftime 22-20. But a late surge by the Tigers netted them 21 points in the fourth quarter, enough for an easy win.

Sue Radcliffe led Circleville with 15 points while Sue Stevenson chipped in with 12. Lisa Burns led Hillsboro with 18 markers while Sandy Zimmerman had 10.

A fourth quarter stumble by Court House enabled Madison Plains to take the nine-point win for third place.

After the score was knotted at 30-30, Plains doubled the Lions score in the final period to take the win.

Donna Gray led Plains with 16 points and Mary Schasser and Debbie Boggs each had 10. Sally Robinson was the only Lion in Double figures with 16 tallies.

Both county teams will move into sectional play in the coming week.

Washington C.H. will travel to Piketon High School to meet Portsmouth West at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Mar. 5.

Miami Trace will hit the road to Athens High School to play Lancaster on Tuesday, Mar. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

McDonald still says no

Kingman still after $3 mil.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — What do you do when a man walks into your office and demands $3 million? Without a gun, that is.

If you're Joe McDonald, general manager of the New York Mets baseball team, you don't faint immediately. You just lean back in your chair, look the big, rangy guy across the desk straight in the eye and reply: "Dave, you gotta be kidding."

Whereupon, the big, rangy guy, whose full name is David Arthur Kingman, doesn't crack a smile.

"I'm serious," he says. "That's what I think I'm worth on the present baseball market."

So it goes — with a slight intrusion of literary license — in this familiar spring training base where the 6-foot-6, 210-pound outfielder with the grooved home run stroke is asking the biggest salary ever demanded by a Met player.

"I can't disclose what he is asking," McDonald said. "It is considerably more than we can afford to pay."

Kingman more or less let the cat out of the bag himself and it's generally accepted that he is demanding $3 million stretched over a period of five years.

McDonald pulled a surprise Thursday by arbitrarily renewing Kingman's contract for the 1977 season, meaning that unless the big slugger comes to terms he will play out his option year with a 20 per cent cut in salary, becoming a free agent in 1978.

Reportedly his last contract called for $90,000.

Kingman's case is unique. Whereas most players fling out their records in backing up demands for improved contracts, Kingman is, in effect, offering his talents on a lay away plan. It's not what he has done. It's what he will do.

"He tells me he thinks he will hit 60 home runs and will be a tremendous drawing card," McDonald said.

A combination pitcher-outfielder at the University of Southern California, Kingman brought a reputation of home run power, a weakness for strikeouts and unimpressive fielding ability when he came to the Mets two years ago from the Giants.

Last season he appeared on his way to a big home run year until he suffered a thumb injury in early July, being sidelined for more than a month. He hit 37 home runs and struck out 135 times.

"We realize his potential and gate appeal," McDonald said. "But there is no way we can pay him more than we pay Tom Seaver."

Seaver, maybe the best pitcher in baseball, is on the second year of a three-year contract totaling $700,000. He is one of 10 Mets making $100,000 or more on a $2 million club payroll.

Maybe Kingman would do better with a gun.

Kuhn approves sale; Lindblad to Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — The Paul Lindblad sale has been settled but the next round in the long-running feud between Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn may be just around the corner.

Thursday night, several hours after Kuhn approved Finley's recent $400,000 sale of relief pitcher Lindblad to the Texas Rangers, the Oakland owner unleashed another name-calling attack on the commissioner and dared him via telegram to veto any of the A's future deals.

"I'm working on deals every day," Finley told The Associated Press from his home in Chicago. "They might include players or they might include cash, it all depends. Nothing is immiment, but you never know with baseball deals. I might have something in the next few days."

Meanwhile, reliever Jim Todd, one of 13 unsigned A's, failed to reach a salary agreement with Finley and said the owner told him that any players who don't sign will be traded.

In approving the Lindblad sale, Kuhn said he was "seriously concerned that there may be a plan, developing or developed, to substantially liquidate the established talent of the Oakland club."

He said he would "scrutinize with great care" any deals which involve substantial cash payments to the A's and "will not hesitate to disapprove such assignments if I find that they are not in the best interests of baseball, and to take other action, either remedial or punitive, as the circumstances may warrant."

The decision was announced in a five-page release distributed by the commissioner's office to the media as well as "to the Oakland club and every other major league club." Kuhn was unavailable for comment.

Finley promptly fired off a lengthy telegram to Kuhn warning him that "any attempt by you to disapprove the sale or trade of a contract by Oakland made within the rules of baseball will be met by legal action once again filed against you."

Brown eyes rule changes

CINCINNATI (AP) — "People don't pay to see MacArthur Lane in St. Louis catch all those little flare passes because the receivers are getting knocked out of their patterns," said Cincinnati Bengals General Manager Paul Brown, vowing changes in the National Football League rules.

"Lane led the league last season on catches like that."

Brown, a member of the NFL competition committee, said he will make several recommendations about rules changes because of abuses when the group meets later this year. Other members are Tex Schramm of Dallas; Don Shula of Miami and Al Davis of Oakland.

Brown said changes must be made in the use of hands by offensive linemen and the hazing, bumping and slapping of pass receivers.

Brown thinks a firmer stand or maybe a rule change would ease the slugging by offensive linemen, at least above the shoulders where it is illegal on offense but seldom called.

"I'm hopeful of clarifying the offensive line blocking techniques permitted," Brown said.

Lions slate car caravan

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions have organized a car caravan for tomorrow evening's game against Waverly for the sectional tournament crown.

The caravan will be forming at the Washington Senior High School at 5:45 p.m. and will move out at 6 p.m. All fans are requested to wear blue and white to the game.

Bowling news

Tony Capuana of Bowland had announced the following spring tournaments to be held at the Washington C.H. bowling facility.

On April 2, the Southeastern Ohio Bowling Association will hold its annual All-American Youth eliminations. From three divisions, winners will advance to state competition with a chance at the national finals. Almost $50,000 will be awarded in scholarships in this tournament.

On April 9, the Proprietors Association Family Tournament will be held. A parent or legal guardian will bowl with their child in three age divisions. The winners will also advance to the state competition with a shot at the national finals in Washington, D.C.

And, on April 24, the Knights of Columbus will hold their junior division tournament. Further information on this tourney can be obtained at the desk at Bowland.

Capuana also stated that applications are now being taken for summer leagues.

Army restores order in Mexican outbreak

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — The army has restored order in the south Mexican state of Oaxaca after 10 days of clashes between police and demonstrating students, townspeople and landless Indians in which at least 16 persons were killed.

The state governor-opposed by the students, Manuel Zarate Aquino, took a leave of absence "in order not to hurt my people," and there were indications that a 13-month dispute which divided the state university into two factions might be settled.

Zarate Aquino was replaced as governor by Gen. Eliseo Jimenez Ruiz, who commanded the military operation two years ago in which the country's most wanted guerrilla, Lucio Cabanas, was killed.

Defense Secretary Felix Galvan Lopez ordered the troops in Thursday after police the night before battled student marchers in the state capital demanding the ouster of the governor.

A demonstrator was killed, and 19 other persons were injured.

Earlier, the police had battled with Indian peasants armed with machetes Monday night in the village of Montenegro Lalana and on Feb. 22 with townspeople in the town of Juchitan demanding the release of student demonstrators for land reform. At least 15 persons were killed in those clashes.

Oaxaca's business community staged a two-day strike Monday and Tuesday, demonstrating support for the governor and demanding strong measures to insure that the tourist trade was not scared off. The students took to the streets for anti-government demonstrations, and the police went into action frequently to scatter them.

The violence stemmed from more than a year of dissension at the local university. It began in January 1976 when a student faction refused to recognize the appointment of Guillermo Garcia Manzano as rector.

Courts

CIVIL SUITS FILED

Pennington Brothers, Inc. bread company, 1100 Clinton Ave., was named in three civil court suits filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Two of the suits involve the firing of two employes in 1974. The third suit requests workmen's compensation benefits.

Charles W. Dennis, 727 S. North St., named the Bakers' and Confectionery Workers' International Union Local 57 as co-defendant in his suit against the bakery.

Dennis alleges that he was wrongfully fired by the bakery on July 10, 1974. He also accused the bakery of giving false and defamatory information to his prospective employers following his firing.

The former shipping clerk at the bakery is asking for $142,000 in damages from Pennington Brothers, Inc.

He is asking for an additional $30,000 in damages from the union on the grounds that the union did not provide adequate representation for him when he was fired.

John F. Buck, 431 Fift St., filed a similar suit, but he did not name the union as a co-defendant.

Buck, who was a shipping clerk at the bakery and who was fired July 10, 1974, is also asking for $142,000 in damages.

The third suit was filed by Cora M. Allen, 1008 John St., as a widow-claimant of her husband Roger S. Allen.

Her husband, who died in 1975, was employed by Pennington Brothers Inc. She claims that he was injured in 1963 while at work and the injuries, a backstrain, were a direct cause of death.

Her efforts to receive workmen's compensation benefits have been denied by the Industrial Commission of Ohio. That commission along with Robert Daugherty, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workman's Compensation, were also named in the suit.

She is requesting the right to participate in the benefits provided by workmen's compensation.

Driver cited in two-car mishap

Local woman hurt in crash

An 18-year-old Washington C.H. woman was injured in a two-car accident early Friday morning.

Deborah S. Joseph, 18, of 809 Conley Court, was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released for a scalp laceration. The injury required four stitches.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that the Joseph auto was turning right onto Glenn Avenue from Columbus Avenue at 12:06 a.m., when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Everett G. Stone, 54, of 517 Third Street.

Stone told police officers that he didn't see any taillights on the Joseph auto before the collision. The impact of the crash had knocked loose the battery cables of the Joseph auto. When police officers connected the battery cables following the mishap, the taillights were working. Stone was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

David Joseph, an eight-month-old passenger, was not injured in the accident, according to police.

Washington C.H. police officers also investigated a three-car mishap at 10:58 p.m. Thursday on Main Street.

Mona L. Mershon, 54, of 1299 Dayton Ave., was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol and reckless operation after her car reportedly struck two parked cars.

The parked cars were owned by Rhonda R. Lute, 1126 Gregg St., and Agnes P. Pennewitt of Wilmington.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department investigated two minor traffic accidents Thursday.

At 3:14 p.m., a car driven by Harry H. Campbell, 64, of 3802 Bush Road, struck a parked car owned by Marilyn Dunn, 7268 Ohio 753-SE, on the Miami Trace High School parking lot.

At 8:30 p.m., Gary Rayburn, 6640 Greenfield-Sabina Road, told sheriff's deputies that a car had struck his mailbox and left the scene.

Rural grass blaze doused by firemen

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called to Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket used car lot on U.S. 22-W Thursday afternoon to extinguish a grass fire.

Firemen reported that an auto leaked gas onto the grass beside the building and a spark from equipment ignited the gas fumes.

No damage to the building or automobiles was reported.

At 1:04 p.m. Thursday, the fire department was called to the Verco and Co. building at 117 N. Fayette St. to check for a natural gas leak. No leak was detected.

Unemployment rate increases

Weather confuses jobs data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Job layoffs resulting from the severe winter and a big increase in the number of persons seeking work pushed the unemployment rate up to 7.5 per cent in February, the government reported today.

The jobless rate in January was 7.3 per cent. Nearly all of a 225,000 rise in persons out of work in February "reflected increased layoffs, probably the result of energy shortages," the Labor Department said. The weather also was a factor in an increase of 220,000 in the number of full-time workers forced into part-time jobs because of production cuts resulting from economic problems.

The Labor Department gave this breakdown of unemployment in various job categories in February:

- Adult men, 5.8 per cent, up from 5.6 per cent in January.
- Adult women, 7.2 per cent, up from 6.9 per cent.
- Teen-agers, 18.5 per cent, down from 18.7 per cent.
- Whites, 6.7 per cent, the same as in January.
- Blacks and others, 13.1 per cent, up from 12.5 per cent.
- Heads of household, 4.9 per cent, up from 4.8 per cent.
- Full-time workers, 6.9 per cent, up from 6.7 per cent.
- Blue collar workers, 8.7 per cent, up from 8.4 per cent.

The Labor Department's monthly employment report showed that the main reason for the rise in unemployment was an unusually large increase in the nation's labor force, up 630,000 to a total of 96.1 million.

A Labor Department analyst said this partly resulted from a statistical correction for January when the size of the labor force dropped by 440,000 at the same time that the overall jobless rate declined from December's 7.8 per cent to 7.3 per cent.

He said the formula used in seasonally adjusting jobs figures probably distorted the reported figures on the decline in January and the increase in February in the size of the labor force. After discounting the big January decline and the February increase, he said the actual increase in the labor force since December was about 200,000.

Total employment rose more in February than unemployment. The Labor Department said there were 400,000 more jobs during the month for a total of 89 million, a total increase of 2.5 million above a year earlier.

Unemployment increased by 225,000 to a total of 7.2 million, following a decrease of more than half a million in January.

The Labor Department said there was a decline in the number of long-term unemployed so that the average duration of unemployment fell from 15.5 weeks in January to 14.7 weeks in February, the lowest in 21 months.

Honorable discharge being sought

Army now tells Blanchester soldier to stay home until mixup is resolved

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Seven years ago, Larry Florea says, the Army told him to go home and wait for orders, which never came. Now, after his arrest for being absent without leave, they've told him the same thing.

Florea was arrested last week and sent to Ft. Knox, an Army base about 40 miles south of here. Florea asked for an honorable discharge, saying he had tried without success for seven years to learn his Army status and had been waiting orders all that time.

The Army let Florea go home to Blanchester, Ohio, on Tuesday and gave him until Monday to return. Then, on Thursday, he finally got his orders. In effect, he was told to keep waiting.

Florea says he ordered to report to Ft. Eustis, Va., in 1971 but was sent home because his records had been lost. He says he went back a second time only to be sent home again.

"I have been checking in over the past seven years," Florea said Thursday. "In '71 I checked about every other month. In '72 I checked about every five months, each time I was told that the Army knew where I was at and not to worry."

Then recently, he applied for an honorable discharge so that he could get a Veterans Administration loan. The Defense Department advised him to turn himself in.

He did, and found that the Army had him listed as a deserter.

After going back to Ohio the second time, Florea got married, found a job and started raising a family. His arrest last week has caused him financial woes, according to his attorney, Jerry D. Bryant.

"He's receiving the same orders now he got seven years ago," Bryant said. "Is this going to end it? Will they make a determination? Will they let ride until the publicity dies down? I don't think they want to make a decision."

Florea was told Thursday that he can go back to work, and the 26 year-old mechanic said he was pleased at that prospect for financial reasons.

"I'm happy that I'm going to remain home, but I don't want to be kept around for another seven years," he said. "I don't know what I am."

Bryant said he has documents and affidavits to prove that Florea tried to learn his status during the past seven years.

Capt. Fred Bowman, commander of the personnel control facility at Ft. Knox, told Florea by telephone Thursday that the affidavits have been received.

"Due to the fact that most of the events in your case happened so long ago, it is taking time to locate the people you named as witnesses and obtain their statements as well as recover the pertinent documents involved."

"In view of this, I am extending your leave for an indefinite period to ensure that I have an opportunity to properly gather and review all the information about your case," Bowman said. "I will call you or send you a letter once a week to advise you of the status of the case and as new developments occur."

But Florea said he's not happy with that. He wants out, with an honorable discharge.

"I just don't know what they are going to do," he said.

His wife, Janet, 22, said she's confused about the whole matter and wants to see it resolved.

"They told him seven years ago to go home 'til further notice, and now they are telling him the same thing," she said. "He's glad to go back to work, but he feels like they're trying to put him off."

Bryant said his client is afraid the Army will call him back at any time. He said unless the matter is settled, satisfactorily for his client, a $5 million lawsuit may be filed against the government.

"The man has been put through some tricks by the Army," Bryant said. "Our No. 1 goal is still the honorable discharge."

Board grants 7.6 per cent hike

MT teachers get pay boost

After two months of study, the Fayette County Board of Education has granted salary increases to certified and uncertified employees.

"It's taken us two months to have all the committees from the various groups complete a study," Superintendent Guy Foster said. "Yesterday, we finally got everything put together."

In a meeting Thursday afternoon, the board adopted a proposal to increase the starting teacher's annual salary from $7,900 to $8,500. The wage hike represents a 7.6 per cent increase for all teachers.

Teachers with master degrees will now receive a starting wage of $9,307 a year. They did receive $8,650 to start.

"In comparison this salary schedule approximates the salary schedules of other area districts," Foster said.

Besides the 7.6 per cent pay increase, county teachers were granted additional benefits by the board.

One year was added to the experience schedule for teachers. The schedule did run through 11 years of service, and it now is set at 12 years. All eligible teachers will also receive family plan Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance coverage, however that program will not become effective until next fall. District teachers presently have board-paid single coverage.

Non-certified employees received between a 6.4 and an 11 per cent salary increase depending upon positions.

Custodians were given the largest increases by the school board. Foster explained that studies showed janitors in the Miami Trace School District were being paid proportionately less than janitors in other area districts.

Besides the wage increase, the board extended the years of experience scale for non-certified employees. A three-year pay scale based on experience was replaced by a five to seven year pay scale depending again on the position of the employee.

The board also increased the rate of pay for county bus drivers on extra-curricular trips. Drivers did receive $9 for trips up to 50 miles. Now they will receive $17.

Cooks were granted a 50 cent per hour wage increase for working any banquets held at the school. Janitors, who work extra hours for school related activities, will receive their usual hourly wage plus $1 an hour.

No decision was made on wage increases for office personnel and administrators at Thursday's meeting. A meeting was set for 7:30 a.m. Monday in the Huntington Bank conference room to discuss those raises and an incremental schedule for extra-curricular activities work.

All raises for certified, non-certified and administrative employees will be retroactive to Jan. 1.

Foster said employees will receive the back pay in a "lump amount" in the next two to four weeks.

The pay increases were made possible by the passage of a 4.7-mill operating levy in last November. However, Foster noted that all the money from the levy did not go to salaries. He said the school board plans to expend a proportionate amount of

In Jeffersonville

Stray canine measure enforcement scheduled

JEFFERSONVILLE — Jeffersonville village council members Thursday night took steps to remedy problems created by roving packs of stray dogs.

Council members agreed to strictly enforce a village ordinance which will enable municipal officials to impound and possibly destroy stray dogs.

"We've got so many stray dogs now that we've just got to do something," said Jeffersonville Mayor Gordon McCarty.

Numerous complaints have been lodged by village residents concerning the animal problem during the past two months.

The ordinance (Section 91.05) will be enforced immediately by village maintenance personnel, the mayor explained.

"We need better service in handling the dog problem," McCarty said.

The village ordinance dealing with stray dogs states that "any dog that is not muzzled or on a leash found at-large in any public street or place shall be impounded and may be destroyed by the municipal authority without notice to the owner."

Copies of the ordinance will be posted at the municipal building and four Jeffersonville business places.

The remainder of Thursday's council meeting was devoted primarily to the need for a professional consulting engineer to work with Jeffersonville officials in solving village water department problems.

Nelson C. Baker, president of the village's board of public affairs, discussed the problems being faced by the water department in furnishing water supplies to village residents.

Baker said the quality of the village water supplies is diminishing because of several needed improvements.

He pointed out that the village's original water filtering system was designed to pump only 75,000 gallons of water per day. The system is presently pumping from 120,000 to 160,000 gallons of water a day.

Improvement to some existing water mains to eliminate the potential waste of water supplies, the need to locate an additional water supply, and a need to determine if the village's existing wells are being pumped to full capacity were

No immediate plans set for 32-year-old structure

Woods purchases Central Grocery Co. building

The former Central Grocery Co. building, 208 E. Market St., has been purchased by a Washington C.H. real estate broker and land developer.

Donald P. Woods, 133 W. Circle Ave., announced today he has purchased the building which has been vacant since early September.

The purchase agreement between Woods and trustees of the W.M. Campbell trust was completed today.

Woods said he had no immediate plans for the 32-year-old building. "I'm going to look at several possibilities," he said.

The possible remodeling and renovation of the structure to house business offices is being considered by the new owner. "But I'm going to explore all avenues," added Woods, who maintains a real estate office just north of the building at 200 E. Market St.

Purchase of the building, which covers one-eighth of a block on E. Market St., had been considered by Washington C.H. City Council members. Plans were dropped when it was deemed that remodeling costs would be

Pike County store owner's luck fades in 3rd attempt

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a chance to boost his winnings to nearly half a million dollars, Pike County general store owner Dwight Long Jr. lost his golden touch in his third appearance on the Ohio lottery's Pot O Gold show Thursday night but added $7,000 to the $230,000 he won previously on the weekly televised giveaway.

Long, 46, made room for a 28-year-old Toledo housewife, Vergie Snyder, who won $40,000 Thursday night and gets to come back next week to try again for up to $250,000 in prize money.

Mrs. Snyder, who works part time as a cashier and hostess at a Ramada Inn, said her winnings will go to fulfill a longtime dream of the family—buying a five-bedroom home.

That would mean separate bedrooms for each of her four children and one for her and her husband, Robert, who works at the Perrysburg Chrysler plant.

She said when she comes back next week she'll bring the same good luck charms she had this week: a ring that her niece gave her to wear and "a little penny that fell out of my wallet before the show."

"I held it in my hand all during the show."

The $51,000 top prize in the Double Play game went to Joseph Waldman of Defiance. The $26,000 second prize was taken by Clifton Jolly of Monroeville, and Leatha Prowell of Norton won $11,000 in Double Play.

Other Pot O Gold winners included Cornelia Sarich of Cuyahoga Falls, $9,300; John Byers of West Newton, Ind. $8,900; Zenon Wiczorek of Cleveland, $8,200, and Charles Sturgeon of Salem, $6,500.

The following numbers were pulled in the weekly number drawing:

Oil experts see starvation in future without new finds

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A Saudi Arabian newspaper mustered Arab and Western experts today to warn that the world could face oil starvation unless Western countries reduce consumption and Arab countries find new reserves.

Mahmoud Amin, assistant secretary-general of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries, told the Arab oil producers they are being imprudent by emphasizing production without worrying about exploration.

"Although the total number of exploration wells has been decreasing, more production wells have been added. Production has been outpacing exploration, that is," Amin wrote in OPEC's monthly news bulletin. His warning was reprinted by the Saudi Gazette, which is owned by Saudi businessman Aly Shobokshi.

Between 1960 and 1974, total reserves of OPEC crude oil increased from 283 billion barrels to 389 billion, or an increase of 106 billion barrels, Amin said. But during that period, 46 billion barrels were pumped, making the net additional reserves only 60 billion barrels.

Meanwhile, the total number of exploration wells in the OPEC countries steadily declined, according to official figures, from 134 in 1970 to 101 in 1971, 67 in 1973 and 60 in 1974. But production wells increased from 419 in 1970 to 520 wells by 1974.

New instant lottery set

CLEVELAND (AP) — Instant game No. 2 is on the Ohio Lottery Commission's drawing boards, and lottery players will be able to start buying tickets in about a month.

A commission spokesman said Thursday the game will continue until $55 million worth of tickets have been sold.

Last year's highly successful instant game sold about $54.1 million worth of tickets in less than three months, giving a big boost to lagging lottery income.

Lottery spokesman Dennis Smith said current weekly sales are down to about $1.1 million but are expected to triple when Instant No. 2 goes into operation.

Modell eyes race

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell says he is seriously considering seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor next year.

Cuyahoga County Republican Chairman Robert Hughes said Thursday he has discussed the idea with Gov. James Rhodes and that Rhodes was receptive.

Hughes called Modell a highly successful businessman who has "a real understanding of people and would be a fresh addition to the Republican ticket."

Dial-a-President equipment installed

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is a room in the White House complex now that looks like a bookie joint. Or maybe one of those potboiler operations where telephone pitchmen sell stock in the Brooklyn Bridge.

It is the heart of Dial-a-President, or "Ask President Carter" as it's called, the two-hour period Saturday afternoon when you can get on the telephone and talk with Jimmy Carter about whatever bugs you.

Banks of telephones are at one end of the room, complicated electronics equipment at the other. And in the center, like Zeus, sits Emerson Stone, his finger on the wipe-out button.

President Carter and Walter Cronkite, the two voices on the White House end of the radio talk show, will not be in the mission control center in the Old Executive Office Building. They will be in the Oval Office, seated before microphones and a television set that flashes the caller's name and its pronunciation.

Cronkite's major role will be to say "The toll-free number to call is 900-242-1611." (Yes, it's a 900 area code — the first.) He will also act as the talk show host, gently easing off the verbose and redundant and keeping things moving. He can ask follow-up questions.

Emerson Stone's role will be different. When the show goes on the air at 2 p.m. EST, his finger will be poised over a silvery button, ready to strike if the language gets saltier than hell and damn.

"The President and I will be the only people with The Button that day," he jokes.

Stone is a CBS Radio News vice president cast in a role performed by call-in talk show hosts on late-night radio all over the country.

There'll be a 6½ second delay before the conversation goes on the air. If your radio is on while you talk to Carter you'll hear yourself 6½ seconds late, causing no end of confusion. If Stone strikes his destruct button, a tape will announce a brief interruption.

President Carter and Cronkite won't be spared any obscenity or abusive language. That nicety is for those listening to all 265 stations on the CBS network, some other stations where there is no CBS outlet, some public broadcasting stations and the Voice of America.

CBS is spending $50,000-plus for the show, Carter's latest effort to stay in touch with the people. The White House says NBC and ABC have ideas for programs, too, but not necessarily in the same format.

A complicated system designed to give all areas of the country equal access, culminates at the 20 telephones set up in room 431 of the EOB. There, each caller will be asked his home telephone number, the listing will be checked against directories and the lucky ones will be told to stand by, the President will be on the line.

Building sold

too great. The building was being considered for purchase by City Council members to be converted in city administration offices.

The Central Grocery Co. closed its operations in Washington C.H. in early September after serving 700 retail grocery stores, restaurants and service stations in an 80-mile radius for more than 35 years. The decline in recent years of small grocery store operations was cited as one of the reasons for closing the firm.

The firm employed 14 persons and had a fleet of five trucks when it closed last year.

Auctions were held to sell the remaining merchandise in the 13,000 square foot building.

Miss Lena Smith, secretary-treasurer of the company, said the firm was founded in 1941 by the late W.M. Campbell. Mr. Campbell died in 1956.

The present building, which measures 82½ by 165 feet, was constructed in 1945 after the original building was destroyed by fire.

Miss Smith, 120 W. Temple St., had assisted in the managerial duties of the firm since 1970 when company president Joseph W. Campbell died.

Woods said that Miss Smith will temporarily maintain the W.M. Campbell trust office in the building until plans are completed for its future use.

Dale W. Stump, a Columbus attorney, and Miss Smith are co-trustees of the W.M. Campbell trust.

Stocks show new gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Boosted by the government's plan to fight inflation and news that expansion of the nation's money supply slowed last week, the stock market moved up strongly today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up more than a point in early trading, and advances outnumbered declines by about 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts have said the market anticipated the news that unemployment for February was up and may already have compensated.

Today's early prices included United Technologies, up ¼ to 36¼; Sony Corp., at 9½, ahead ¼; and Texas Gas, up ¾ to 43½.

On Thursday, the Dow industrial average closed at its high, up 6.57 at 948.16.

IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING GAS SERVICE

Should it become necessary that gas service to the area in which you live or have property be interrupted due to an insufficient supply of flowing gas and the resulting loss of gas pressure it is essential that you take the following steps to expedite restoring gas service to your property when it becomes possible to do so:

1. Turn the shut off valve which is located in the piping on the left side of the face of the meter by turning it one quarter turn until the handle or nut is crosswise to the piping.
2. Turn the shut off valve located in the piping immediately ahead of each gas appliance by turning them one quarter turn and until the handle or nut is crosswise to the gas piping.

In the event it is necessary that the gas outage be for an extended period of time, during which the outside temperatures are below freezing, the following steps should be taken to prevent damage of piping and equipment from freezing:

1. Drain the water heater.
2. Drain the toilet tank and sponge the water out of the bottom of the toilet.
3. Remove and empty all water traps (Kitchen sink, lavatories, laundry tubs, etc.) Where drain traps are not accessible anti-freeze or enough salt to prevent freezing should be used.
4. Disconnect clothes washers and dishwashers and drain water supply hoses.
5. Drain and blow out water boilers in furnaces and all other water holding piping and equipment.

In addition to using fireplaces, if electricity is available, burning lights and operating electrical appliances can provide some heat inside the structure but care must be exercised to prevent fires.

As soon as the gas supply and pressures have recovered sufficiently to restore gas service, qualified personnel will be in your area to direct and perform the restoration of your service.

Lukens eyes gubernatorial race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Still awaiting word on Gov. James A. Rhodes' plans for 1978, some Republicans have started to break ranks and test the waters for 1978, some Republicans have started to break ranks and test the waters for their own gubernatorial bids.

The latest is Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, a former two-term congressman who ran for the GOP nomination in 1970 but was defeated.

Now 45, Lukens appears to be leaning away from the party's right wing where he once helped manage the unsuccessful presidential bid of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

He admits he is trying to broaden his appeal, and some of the legislation he is backing this year is an indication.

Among his bills are those that create an Ohio office on Spanish speaking affairs, and a series that would benefit the elderly by freezing their property taxes and increasing the income base of the homestead property tax exemption from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

Former Ambassador to India William B. Saxbe still is keeping pundits guessing as to whether he may get back into politics, despite earlier denials of being interested.

In Columbus recently, he commented he was having "withdrawal symptoms" after being out of the profession for the first time in 30 years.

"I'm thinking about forming a Politicians Anonymous, so that when one of us thinks about running for office again, we can get together and pray for each other," he quipped.

Saxbe, also a former U.S. senator and state attorney general, is being urged by some Republicans to seek his party's nomination for governor in 1978—regardless of the plans of incumbent GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Father Kenneth Grimes, the Catholic priest who serves as Ohio House chaplain, is taking a three-month leave to study in Rome.

He got a sendoff from House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe of New Boston, who recalled that he had once spent some time in Italy, but probably had different memories than Father Grimes will have when he completes his tour.

But the priest got the last laugh. "After 12 years with the Speaker," he told House members, "the Bishop thought I ought to go and get myself straightened out."

Flying around the nation in search of natural gas to fuel energy depleted Ohio, Gov. Rhodes had pleasant news when he traveled to Texas to talk to oil and gas producers.

His audience wasn't sure how to take him when he began his speech:

"You're looking at one government official that has no rules or regulations for you."

At first, he received a sputtering of applause. Eventually though, realizing that Rhodes had no jurisdiction in Texas to sign new laws, the entire audience applauded his comment.

Test of accountability

House members' commitment to the principle of public accountability is being put to a severe test. The House Commission on Administrative Review has recommended abolishing "slush fund" office accounts, and that would hurt.

Such accounts are cherished by members who like to have some money around that they can spend as they please, without having to tell anyone how they spent it. Sometimes the accounts, which may total more than a congressman's annual pay are used to hide special-interest payments. Reformers correctly argue that such things don't jibe with the idea of having a stringent ethics code, and they are right.

One curious piece of information concerning the slush funds has just come to light. Thanks to some as yet unexplained legislative sleight-of-hand near the end of the 1974 session, contribution of up to $100 to the so-called "newsletter" account of any representative may be deducted from taxable income.

These accounts ostensibly are used to pay for newsletters that inform constituents about their representative's activities. Ostensibly - but not, and there's the rub, necessarily. A lawmaker can pocket the money if he chooses, and at present no one can say him nay.

It is an intolerably lax arrangement, one that invites abuse. Paying for newsletters - even though they may contain a lot of personal puffery - is one thing; allowing the "newsletter" fund to be spent at will on anything at all is quite another. The House should make the distinction, and abide by it.

THESE DAYS....By John Chamberlain

Two sides in anti-litter war

Maybe the country should be arguing about terrorism in Argentina, or choosing sides in the war that will determine what particular tribal minority will be accorded majority status in Rhodesia or South West Africa. But the bigger struggle in the U.S. happens to be about garbage.

The present round in the off-again, on-again battle is between the champions of the returnable container and the "shredders" who would chop everything up before separating glass and metals for recycling. This is getting really bitter, particularly in New York state on Long Island and in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

As an interested - and affected - bystander in the fight, my emotional sympathies are with the returnable container faction. I get tired of picking up after the beer-drinking slob who think nothing about tossing bottles, cans and torn six-pack holders in my driveway and along my fences.

The "shredders," however, seem to have the better of the argument when they say that litter collection can return a profit without causing all that trouble to housewives and the proprietors of shopping centers, who would lose time or money, as the case might be, in getting bottles back to a distant beverage company.

Bottlers say that it would cost them millions to stay in business if they were forced to pay for the round trips of thousands of containers. The "shredders," on the other hand, look on the collection of litter as a chance for coining a neat profit. The aluminum industry, for example, now boasts that its toll-free consumer hot line (800-223-6830) has resulted in a voluntary return of 25 per cent of all the aluminum cans manufactured in the U.S.

There are 2,200 recycling centers in the country, almost double the number of a year ago. The 17 cents that is now being paid for a pound of scrap aluminum is enough to have hundreds of kids combing the roads for a type of garbage that can be turned into gold. Altogether, some $26 million were paid to collectors in aluminum scrap in 1975.

One out of every four aluminum cans produced in the U.S. is made from recycled stuff. To fashion a can from recycled material takes less than five per cent of the energy required to make a can from mined bauxite in the first place.

The recovery of aluminum is part of a wider campaign to shred and recycle just about everything. Ames, Iowa, is baling its waste paper, screening its discarded metals by magnetic and mechanical separation devices, and using its nondescript refuse as fuel to make electricity. Baltimore County in Maryland is using magnetic separation for ferrous waste, and its glass and aluminum recovery will be operational some time this spring. Bridgeport, Conn. Brockton, Mass., St. Louis, Chicago, San Diego County, Calif., Pompano Beach and Dade County Fla., and the whole state of Delaware are either in the shakedown stages of recovery for recycling, or are in the business of signing contracts or taking bids for the building of plants.

The aluminum industry has just signed papers with the city of New Orleans for the purchase of all the aluminum cans and old pots and pans and garden furniture that can be separated from the rest of New Orleans' trash. The city expects to have full recovery of waste in operation sometime in May.

New Orleans has some fascinating machinery either in operation or on order - a three-way hopper which directs refuse from the shredders to the air classifiers, elector-magnets for ferrous recovery, and a so-called Triple S. unit for air classification.

When the Hempstead, N.Y., recycling plant gets going, it will process some 2,000 tons of garbage a day. The town of Hempstead plans to sell its glass and metals and use the remaining garbage to power a Long Island Lighting Company electric generator.

The banners of the one-way bottle, while they are well-meaning, can offer nothing to compete with the profit-making lure that is animating the recyclers. But the battle between the two sides is just beginning. Since both sides want to rid the world of litter, bystanders in the war can hardly lose.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS
FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO
CASE NO. 77 CIV 2

Fulton & Goss, Inc. vs.
FRED J. EVANS, et al.
FRED J. EVANS and JANE DOE, UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF FRED J. EVANS, whose last place of residence is unknown will take notice that on January 3rd, 1977, Fulton & Goss, Inc., filed its Complaint in Case Number 77 CIV 2 in the Court of Common Pleas of Fayette County, Ohio, alleging that the defendants, FRED J. EVANS and JANE DOE, UNKNOWN SPOUSE, IF ANY, OF FRED J. EVANS, have or claim to have an interest in the real estate described below:

SITUATED in the City of Washington Court House, County of Fayette, and State of Ohio, and described as follows, to wit:

Being Lot Numbered Thirty (30) in Avondale Add. to said City, for a more particular description, reference is made to Plat Book A, page 575 Fayette County Recorder's Office.

(PRELIMINARY COMMONLY KNOWN AS 1010 WILLARD STREET, WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, OHIO 43140)

The petitioner further alleges that by reason of default of the defendants in the payment of a promissory note, according to its terms, the conditions of a concurrent mortgage deed given to secure the payment of said note and conveying the premises described, have been broken, and the same has become absolute.

The petitioner prays that the defendants named above be required to answer and set up their interest in said real estate or be forever barred from asserting the same, for foreclosure of said mortgage, the marshalling of any liens, and the sale of said real estate, and the proceeds of said sale applied to the payment of petitioner's claim in the proper order of its priority, and for such other and further relief as is just and equitable.

The defendants named above are required to answer on or before the 11th day of April, 1977.

Women get chance at Navy sea duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a court suit, the Navy is moving to give women wider opportunities for sea duty.

The Navy is circulating word that it has prepared legislation to change current laws that prohibit assignment of women to vessels other than hospital ships and transports.

Navy women have been beached since 1975 when the last hospital ship, the Sanctuary, was retired.

A message from headquarters to fleet and shore stations said: "The proposed change ... will permit the Secretary of the Navy to prescribe a greater variety of shipboard duty to which women members of the naval service may be assigned."

But Navy women still would be barred from serving in combat.

The proposal, which must be approved by Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Congress, marks a victory for Navy women who have been pushing for equality with Navy men.

Pentagon sources acknowledged the new move was spurred by a federal suit filed here by six Navy enlisted women and officers, who claim Navy restrictions infringe their constitutional rights.

The Navy message said the proposed law change would permit assignment of women "to temporary duty on any vessels not engaged in combat missions, and to permanent duty on vessels similar to hospital ships and transports which would not be expected to be assigned combat missions."

Officials refused to elaborate when asked for details on what kinds of ships would be likely to receive women for their crews. The language of the message suggested Navy women might be placed on combat type vessels, as well as various classes of support ships, in peacetime.

Energy committee reduces hours

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Energy Emergency Management Committee has reduced its 24-hour operation to 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, state development Director James Duerk said Thursday.

Duerk said the center handled as many as 2,000 calls a day during the height of the state's energy crisis.

Duerk said crisis center telephones will remain in operation and the center can be put back in full operation if severe weather or energy conditions recur.

Dear Abby:

Blacks upset about mixed marriage

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is in her senior year at college. She is a beautiful girl who has won many honors and beauty contests, but she never let it go to her head. She was always very popular with both boys and girls, and she never gave us any trouble.

She wrote to tell us that she plans to get married after she graduates in June. The man (from whom she says about him) is a fine person. He is her college professor.

My husband is heartbroken and says if she marries him she can't set foot in our house again. You see, he is of a different color. I also feel that she would be better off marrying her own kind, but I would never turn her away from our door.

How can I get my husband to change his mind and accept our daughter's husband even if he is white? We are black.

MICHIGAN MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Remind your husband that for a people who have suffered from racial discrimination for centuries to insist on "reverse discrimination" in choosing a mate makes no sense. He'll lose his daughter and gain nothing for his race.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old divorced woman who came to visit Chicago from a foreign country last October. Without going into detail, I find myself now in a most distressing circumstance.

I am confirmed to be pregnant. The man has left me, and I am without friends, without funds and no source of income.

I will not submit to an abortion as it is against my religious principles. Where can I get help? I feel my obligation to give life to this child, but I cannot see my way clear to be a proper mother and raise a child.

Please, please help me.
STRANDED IN CHICAGO
DEAR STRANDED: Call BIRTHRIGHT - 312-233-0353. A courteous, understanding woman will answer all your questions and offer suggestions that are alternatives to abortion. At no cost to you, you will be offered medical care for yourself, and arrangements for the adoption of your child. Counseling is available, too. I urge you to call them at once. Good luck and God bless. Please let me know how you make out. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has two daughters, ages 7 and 5. The 5-year-old strangled her cat with a ribbon and seemed very pleased with herself. When I asked her whatever made her do such a thing, she said, "My brain told me to do it," and she showed no remorse whatsoever.

The 7-year-old confided that she has been stealing money from her friends and school supplies from school. She says she knows it is wrong, but she can't stop doing it.

The girls' mother knows all this, and says she doesn't see anything "unusual" about it. ("All kids steal and kill animals-it's just a part of growing up.") She even hides these facts from her husband.

I am worried sick. Tell me what to do before it is too late.

AFRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: The mother and daughters need treatment, and as a friend who's "worried sick," you should tell the woman's husband what's going on immediately!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1977. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1681, England's King Charles II granted William Penn a charter for what is now Pennsylvania. On this date:

In 1789, the first U.S. Congress convened in Federal Hall in New York City but had to adjourn because there was not a quorum.

In 1829, the White House was mobbed by an unruly crowd at the inauguration of President Andrew Jackson.

In 1917, Republican Representative Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman to serve in Congress.

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt announced his New Deal program in an inauguration address.

In 1971, terrorists in Turkey kidnapped four U.S. airmen and threatened to shoot them unless ransom of $400,000 was paid. The ransom was not paid, and the fliers were released five days later.

Ten years ago: A presidential commission urged major changes in the military draft, including a limited lottery and an end to most student deferments.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union signed an agreement with Libya to jointly develop and refine Libyan oil. The pact was seen as a pressure tactic against western oil companies.

One year ago: The United States warned Cuba not to interfere in a conflict between Rhodesia and Mozambique, as the Cubans had done in Angola.

Today's birthday: South African singer Miriam Makeba is 45.

Thought for today: All my possessions for a moment of time. — The purported last words of Queen Elizabeth I, 1533-1603.

Rabbi urges conversion efforts

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — To counter losses to Judaism, some rabbis are urging active efforts to bring in new converts.

A "worldwide program for conversions," advocates Rabbi Gilbert Killin of Flint, Mich. A growing number of others are pressing for similar initiatives to add new adherents.

Many people "would be delighted to become Jewish if only somebody asked them," says Rabbi Killin, but he adds that they generally encounter "indifference or even subtle hostility" to it.

"All but the most determined are effectively turned off," he says. Citing a "rising interest" in Judaism, he says Jewish schools, synagogues and publications should introduce materials to encourage the "desirability of attracting converts" among non-Jews, and appreciation for them.

Traditionally, ever since the ancient scattering of Jews from Israel in the diaspora, Judaism generally has avoided active pursuit of converts outside those born into the heritage, a policy steaming from periods of community isolation.

But in ancient Israel, before destruction of that state and the rise of Christianity, Jewish proselytizing was common. They would "traverse sea and land to make a single proselyte," notes Mattheu 23:15.

Jews need to reaffirm the "ancient respectability of conversionary efforts," Rabbi Killin writes in Judaism, a scholarly quarterly of the American Jewish Congress.

Reform Judaism, one of the three wings of American Judaism, has been most open to converts in recent times, and a recent survey shows a majority of conservative rabbis now approve and participate in conversion programs.

Methodist women sponsor event

Cluster number six of the Columbus South District United Methodist Women will sponsor an evening with a missionary, Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m., at the Madison Mills Church. The missionary will be the Rev. Olin Burkholder, of Nashville, who is now retired after serving many years in Korea. Mr. Burkholder, who will show slides and have many other interesting items from Korea, will be the guest of the Columbus South District for the week of March 6. A social hour will follow his presentation. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Mr. Hoppes discusses seminar

Local families of Jehovah's Witnesses were present recently when an announcement was made by Presiding Elder, Wendell N. Hoppes, concerning the semi-annual seminar to be held March 5 and 6, in the Assembly Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, London.

The program will stress the theme, "Entering a Large Door Leading to Activity," which is based on the words of Paul at 1 Corinthians 16:9.

"Many of us," Mr. Hoppes said, "will share in the Bible education and refresher course in the art of being effective in our evangelistic work locally."

"The family of Jehovah's Witnesses will bond together by the employment of unselfish assistance in both words and deeds," continued Mr. Hoppes. "We will be encouraged to continue to do so in the coming events of world importance yet ahead, as we listen to District Overseer, John D. Busby, as he speaks on the subject, "Follow the way of Life".

The announcement was made to the congregation at the conclusion of the weekly study at the Watchtower. Hoppes added, "We invite all to attend and receive the encouragement needed for our day. It is free and open to the public."

Revival to be held

A revival will be held March 8-13 at the Walnut Hills Church of Christ in Christian Union, located on Barger Road, which is under the pastordship of the Rev. Bob Carroll. The Rev. Don Bock, evangelist, of Washington C.H., will speak, and Richard and Loretta Hurlies, of Jeffersonville, will sing.

The church is located 12 miles south of Washington C.H., off US 62, on Barger Road, or four miles north of Leesburg. Everyone is welcome to attend. Come expecting great things from the Lord.

Fayette County Retired Teachers add new members

Thirty-five per cent of the voting population in Ohio is people over 60 years of age; therefore, it is important that persons in this age group acquaint themselves with legislation which affects their welfare. This point was made to the Fayette County Retired Teachers in attendance at the association luncheon meeting at the Terrace Lounge Thursday, March 3.

Mr. C. James Grothaus, assistant executive director of member benefits for the Ohio Retirement System (STRS) gave a clear and comprehensive explanation of the medical, health, and death benefits which are now provided by STRS-Aetna Medical Health Care Plan. He also explained the provisions of some bills which are being drawn-up for presentation at this session of the legislature.

Mr. Wilson Webb, president, conducted the business meeting at which time Mrs. Marjorie Mayhew and Miss Lenore Young were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Harry Craig gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Willard Bitzer the treasurer's report. Mr. Kenneth Craig, legislative chairman, reported on current legislation of interest to the group.

Mrs. Leonard Stephenson gave the invocation preceding the luncheon. The Misses Jeanette and Josephine Roush decorated the tables with flowers and plants from their greenhouse.

Two guests present were: Mrs. Nancy Cummings and Mrs. Marian Tossey, Director of District 6 of the Ohio Retired Teacher's Association.

White Oak Grove Women plan activities

The White Oak Grove United Methodist Women held the regular meeting in the church basement Wednesday evening. Mrs. Virgil Hardman, the vice-president, called the meeting to order with the call to worship. The roll call was answered by "What does Lent mean to you". The usual reports were given and approved.

Plans were made to attend the program "An evening with a Missionary" at Madison Mills church at 7:30 p.m. March 8.

The group was urged to support and assist with the weekend program March 26 and March 27 to be presented at the church by students from the Wesley Foundation of Kentucky Eastern University.

It was announced the group will be co-hostesses with New Holland ladies for the "Cluster" meeting to be held at the church March 30. The units will sponsor the Easter Breakfast after the sunrise service.

The cook book committee urged each member to submit recipes by April 12. The plans will be completed at the next meeting for the cook book.

Mrs. Terry Miracle, Mrs. Charles Ellis and Mrs. Robert Lanman were appointed to work on the plans for a bus trip.

The program topic, "Relationship to God," was presented with Scripture and a meditation. A list of questions was given to each person dealing with their personal relationship with God and of their relationship to other people. After a period of time for studying the questions, a discussion period followed. Each member was instructed to further study the questions at home. The meeting was closed by prayer.

Snack refreshments were served at a long table using the St. Patrick Day theme. A social hour followed.

Whole wheat bread

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD — It comes in varying hues, depending on the proportion of whole wheat and white flour used.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Whole wheat bread comes in varying hues, depending on whether it is made entirely with whole wheat flour or with ther addition of some white flour. We get most requests for recipes for the former, so here goes.

There's an interesting all whole wheat loaf in a fine new cookbook, "Good Bread" by Barbara Joan Hansen (Macmillan). This recipe came to Barbara from a young man in Taos Ski Valley who was into "health" foods and who, with his brothers, baked the bread for a restaurant. We find this loaf stays moist, slices well and has great flavor. Here's our adaptation of the recipe.

ALL WHOLE WHEAT LOAF

1½ cups warm (105 to 115 degrees) water
1 envelope active dry yeast
¾ to 4 cups fine or medium-fine whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons molasses
¼ cup hulled raw sunflower seeds
In a large warm bowl sprinkle the yeast over the water; stir to dissolve, stir in 1½ cups of the flour. Cover and let stand in a draftfree warm (80 degrees) place until mixture about half fills the bowl and is very bubbly and spongy underneath — 1 hour. Beat down. Stir in the salt, oil, molasses and sunflower seeds. Gradually stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out on a smooth surface floured with whole wheat flour; knead until smooth and elastic — about 10 minutes. Place in an oiled bowl; turn to oil top; cover and let stand in a draftfree warm (80 degrees) place until doubled — 1 hour. Punch down; knead briefly. Shape into a loaf and place in an oiled 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Let rise in a draftfree warm (80 degrees) place until dough is as high as pan — about 1 hour. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned and top sounds hollow when tapped with knuckles — 30 minutes. Turn out on a wire rack; turn right side up; cool completely. Makes 1 loaf.

Note: If the bottom of the loaf is pale and quite soft when you turn it out, slip the loaf, bottom-side-up, back into the pan and continue baking until browned — perhaps another 10 minutes.

(Adapted from "Good Bread" by Barbara Joan Hansen, published by Macmillan.)

Choral Society

has 3 rehearsals

In preparation for the Fayette County Choral Society's concert of Sunday, March 20 in First Christian Church, 232 N. North St., members will meet in the church for the three final rehearsals, March 7, March 14, and March 18.

At these rehearsals, a chamber orchestra will accompany the Faure "Requiem" which is the major choral works of the March 20 program.

The chorus will sing a group of shorter secular and sacred pieces and the orchestra will play separate pieces by Mozart and Handel.

ROUGH RIDERS 4-H

The first meeting of the Rough Riders 4-H Club was held Feb. 28 in Wayne Hall in Good Hope, and called to order by Lynne Acton, outgoing president. Pledges were led by Laurie Merritt.

New officers elected were Rob Corzatt, president; Mike Dunton, vice president; Lynne Acton, secretary; Tammy Arnold, treasurer; Rhonda Medary, historian; Bill Miller, news reporter; Eddie Braden, advisor, reported that new classes have been added to the Fayette County Fair 4-H Horse Show.

There will be a yearling class for the weanlings that were shown in production last year, also an additional reigning class. A horse judging clinic is planned at the fairgrounds April 30. The clinic will be sponsored by the Fayette County 4-H Council.

Rob Corzatt, Roger Dunton and Eddie Braden will represent the Rough Riders.

Advisors Mr. Braden and Mr. Eddie Corzatt served refreshments. The next meeting will be March 28 in Wayne Hall, when Kelly Lane and Bill Miller will bring treats.

TRACTOR CLUB

The third meeting of the Tractor Club was held at Krieger Equipment. Mike Miller led the Pledge of Allegiance.

John Long gave a report on "How to Take Breathing Rate," and Darrell Hennessy gave a report on "Why Smoking is Dangerous." Fred Melvin and Mike Miller gave a demonstration on "Care of a Battery."

Karen Persinger and Bill Mark were assigned to give a demonstration at the next meeting. Joe Geesling taught what makes an engine burn to the first-year members and Frank Dill taught the use of oil for the engine to the second-year members. Jim Garland taught the engine ignition system to the third-year group and John Hiser taught transmitting powers to the fourth-year group.

Refreshments were served by Krieger Equipment following adjournment.

Small city awaiting Carter visit

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — President Carter won't find the down home ambience of small Southern towns when he visits in this Massachusetts mill town later this month for the first of his "meet-the-people" trips.

But Clinton's problems — unemployment, inflation and racial issues — won't be new to him.

During his March 16-17 visit, he'll participate in a St. Patrick's Day celebration and witness a special town meeting staged for his benefit. He'll also find a town hard-pressed by a slow economy, and a community troubled by racial friction.

"We're a depressed area," says Alan Jewett, chairman of the board of selectmen. He drives 35 miles daily to Boston for work.

The dusty redbrick buildings which housed the largest gingham mill in the world in the 1880s still stand, but life here is no longer quite the same.

More than 800 persons out of a work force of 10,000 are jobless — an eight per cent unemployment rate that is higher than either the state or national averages. Between 1973 and 1974, the town's payrolls dropped from $30 million to $23 million.

For the most part, the town's residents are Roman Catholic Irish, and at the end of the day the men like to relax over boilermakers at the bar of the Old Timer's restaurant off High Street.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quick now, tell me the type of series in which you may hear such classic lines as: "Believe me, Charlie Seville never put out no contract on no cop." A new police show? Right. It's "Dog and Cat," which premieres Saturday on ABC after an old cop show, "Starsky and Hutch," which starts after a new cop show, "Future Cop." All this marks progress.

The "Future Cop" premiere stars Ernest Borgnine and John Amos as veteran gendarmes with a robot partner. It wasn't available for a preview. But ABC claims it isn't a triangular "Holmes and Yoyo."

"Dog and Cat" was ready for advance inspection, and we'd describe it as kind of a lighthearted "Police Woman."

It stars Kim Basinger, who has the Bionic Woman's moves and flowing tress but no bionics, and Lou Antonio, a personable thespian in his late 30s. They play a pair of undercover cops in a big city.

Most cop capers have a gimmick. This has three. Kim, cast as a Georgia-born lawperson, is kiddingly called "hillbilly" by her veteran partner. Her beau is a surfer. And she drives a beat-up red VW.

Saturday's opus doesn't show the beau. But it does show our heroes trying to solve a jewel-smuggling case and a double murder, and learn if and why veteran jewel fence Charlie Seville wants them deadened.

Oh, yes a once-honest fellow undercover cop also is involved. He is a swinger, drives a blue Corvette, wears the best threads and drinks fine scotch. He tries to confuse their pursuit of truth.

I won't reveal why he goes wrong. But toward the end, you may want to hear his explanation: "I met a lady. She didn't buy my act... I went dumb for a while. I needed something big for her."

Definitely a No. 1 price. Another reason could be room... a major reason you buy a wagon in the first place. Volare gives you more room than any other American compact wagon. More room in the passenger compartment, more room in the cargo area. Volare even has 75% the cargo space of an average of full size wagons. No wonder America is saying, "Thanks for giving us what we need in a station wagon. Thanks for giving us Volare."

Price and room. Not one... but two reasons why Volare is on top.

Warnke opponents ready for action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservatives are stirring up opposition to Paul C. Warnke as the Senate prepares for a long debate on his nomination as chief U.S. arms negotiator.

At least 10 members of the Senate Armed Services Committee declared their opposition to Warnke as the Senate prepared today to begin a debate that may go on for four days.

Separate votes were set for next Wednesday on President Carter's twin nomination of Warnke as director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and as head of the U.S. delegation to strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union.

With strong support from President

Carter, Warnke is expected to win Senate confirmation by a comfortable margin.

As the Senate prepared to begin its debate, members were being flooded with bulk mail urging that Warnke be denied confirmation.

The Coalition Against Unilateral Disarmament, formed to fight the nominations, sent about a half million letters to conservatives in an effort to pressure the Senate, an officer of the group said.

The letter mailed out by the group asks those who receive it to sign an enclosed printed card that expresses opposition to Warnke. The recipient is then to mail the card to a senator.

Warnke, 57, a Washington lawyer, was an assistant secretary of defense in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. He has been under fire for statements and writings since leaving the Pentagon in 1969.

Warnke has opposed major new U.S. weapons systems and at one time recommended unilateral restraint in U.S. arms development in hopes it would bring a reciprocal weapons cutback by Russia.

In his confirmation hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and in a later Armed Services Committee hearing, Warnke said he rejects "any concept of unilateral disarmament."

"I am a strong advocate of arms control," he said. "I'm also a strong advocate of a strong national defense. I believe the two to be totally consistent and indeed complementary."

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Thursday he will oppose the "new Warnke" to be chief SALT negotiator.

A low pressure system over the Mississippi Valley feeding warm moist air into Ohio is expected to keep rain falling over the state at least until tonight. The rains will diminish to light showers before ending.

Winds will become quite strong and gusty today as the low intensifies northeastward over the Great Lakes. Temperatures will continue relatively mild with highs in the 50s and low 60s through Saturday. Lows tonight will be in the 30s.

Skies will be partly cloudy Saturday.

Three thefts, vandal report checked by police, deputies

Area law enforcement officers are investigating three thefts and one vandalism incident which were reported Thursday.

Robert Massie, Cook-Yankee town Road, told the Fayette County Sheriff's Department that a chain saw valued at $229.95 was taken from his front porch. The time of the theft was unknown.

Sheriff's deputies were also contacted by Chester Littler, 8839 Evans Road. He reported that his mailbox, valued at $25, was damaged by vandals

Wednesday night.

Ron Knisley, 622 S. Fayette St., told Washington C.H. police officers that someone stole a battery from his automobile which was parked behind his residence. The battery was valued at $25.

Everett G. Stone, 517 Third St., told police officers that a citizen's band radio antenna was stolen from his car which was parked in front of his residence. The antenna was valued at $50.

Boosters set candy sale

A candy sale has been launched as a fund-raising project by the Miami Trace High School band boosters club.

The sale, which started today, is being headed by co-chairmen Mrs. Ray Jinks and Mrs. Robert Weber. Prizes will be awarded to the top three salesmen.

Money raised through the candy sale and other projects through the year will be used for the awards program and for the upkeep of band uniforms. The boosters club is also scheduled to discuss the purchase of new overlays for the band uniforms at its April 7 meeting.

Band director Aaron Spaulding

presented several reports to the band boosters at the organization's monthly meeting Thursday night.

Spaulding said the annual band camp will be held at the Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School in Wilmington Aug. 7-13. He also said the annual band concert will be held May 5.

The boosters club will staff a concessions stand at a district band competition April 23 at Miami Trace High School.

Club president Mrs. Ralph Vanzant appointed an advance planning committee consisting of Mrs. Jack Merriman, Miss Jean Deakne, Andy Anderson and Mrs. Norman Chaney.

Westinghouse settles feud

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three power companies that wanted to force Westinghouse Electric Corp. to honor a contract to supply uranium at one-fourth its current cost have settled instead for cash, equipment and advice.

The difference between the contracted price of $9 a pound and the present price of about $40 a pound would have cost Westinghouse an estimated $2 billion over the next 20 years.

Westinghouse still faces suits from 24 utilities in Virginia and Sweden. Those cases have not yet been heard.

Allegheny County Judge I. Martin Wekselman, who mediated the settlement and announced it Thursday, said the economy of southwestern Pennsylvania had been spared a severe blow.

"The people affected by this case were not just stockholders and chairmen of corporate boards. Thousands of citizens' jobs and the interests of all consumers of energy were at stake," said Wekselman.

Duquesne Light, Ohio Edison and Pennsylvania Power companies had asked the county court to force Westinghouse to provide uranium for their power plants at the price contracted for in the mid-1960s.

Westinghouse had declared it was relieved of contractual obligations because unforeseen market conditions pushed the cost up to about $40 a pound.

Under the agreement, the giant electric equipment maker will give the utilities cash, products and technical advice instead.

Murder conference scheduled March 10

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ohio and Kentucky law enforcement officials will begin a series of meetings March 10 to look into as many as 16 recent unsolved slayings of young women in the Greater Cincinnati area.

Dr. Frank Cleveland, Hamilton County Coroner who called the said he would not discuss the cases in public nor list the names of the victims. Cleveland said he called the meeting to see whether the cases are linked in any way.

"All are the same general type cases, the majority of victims were nude, without identification and dumped some place," Cleveland said.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, in a copyrighted story, reported there may be a connection between last May's Mississippi marijuana seizure, the killing in Cincinnati of alleged federal drug informant Boyd McQuearry, and some of the unsolved murders.

The Enquirer quoted sources as reporting that at least four of the victims knew each other, and one victim knew Peter Servi, one of two men convicted of conspiracy to commit McQuearry's murder.

Invited to the meetings are law enforcement officials from Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Butler, Clinton and Clermont counties, Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and northern Kentucky.

The meeting was sparked by the latest killing, Elaine Marie Bear, 15, of Cincinnati. Her nude body was found in Clinton County last weekend. She had been missing since Jan. 15, police said.

Clinton County Coroner Dr. Edwin P. Hiatt, said the victim had apparently been dumped in a creek near Wilmington, Ohio. Results of an autopsy showed Miss. Bear had been strangled, apparently by a cord which was a half-inch in diameter.

Two bodies have been found in Anderson Township in Hamilton County. The body of Dorothy Sullivan was found with a slit throat in a gravel pit last Aug. 28, while another murder victim Mary Ruth Hopkins was found last June 30, in a wooded area. She had been strangled according to police.

"These are all fresh cases, not four or five years old, which occurred in the southwest Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky area," Cleveland said.

He declined to speculate whether all the victims might have known each other or might have been killed by the same person.

Decency rally held in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A woman at the "Ohioans for Decency" rally in porno king Larry Flynt's home town thrust her Bible up to block the photograph of a nude man being held behind her by counter protesters.

She and the other rally participants on the Ohio Statehouse steps Thursday were urging an end to pornography and obscenity—including, apparently, Michelangelo's rendering from the Vatican's Sistine Chapel.

carefully masked to conceal Adam's genitals — was held by a supporter of Hustler magazine, who joined magazine employees and publisher Flynt's wife and brother at the rally.

The Bible-toting, hymn-singing supporters of Ohioans for Decency were asked to circulate petitions calling for an "immediate crackdown on organized crime and the traffic in pornography" by Atty. Gen. William Brown.

Buckner, Dierker, Kingman bite dust

Injuries basking in Florida sunshine

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The injury jinx is undergoing spring training, too ... and right now it seems to be in better shape than the ballplayers.

The baseball camps have been open only a few days but the trainers are already working overtime. That must be why they call it spring training.

Thursday's list of victims included pitcher Larry Dierker of the St. Louis Cardinals, first basemen Bill Buckner and Larry Bittner and pitcher Bill Bonham of the Chicago Cubs, outfielder Dave Kingman of the New York Yankees and pitchers Mike Cuellar and Skip Pitlock and outfielder Bob Jones of the California Angels.

Dierker's injury was the most serious. The veteran righthander, acquired from the Houston Astros in an off-season trade, suffered a broken bone in his left leg and will miss the start of the season next month.

Dierker, who compiled a 137-117 record in 12 seasons with the Astros, will be sidelined from 4-6 weeks. Vern Rapp, the Cardinals' new manager, had designated Dierker as the starting pitcher for the opening exhibition game next week and the likely starter on opening day as well.

Buckner, who came to the Cubs from Los Angeles in the Rick Monday deal, was lost for at least two weeks when he suffered a fractured left index finger while fielding a ground ball. Buckner is still limping from ankle surgery last October but said he would be ready for the season opener.

Bittner was injured when a ground ball struck him on the hip and Bonham suffered a muscle pull in his right thigh while covering first base.

Cuellar, a 39-year-old lefthander attempting to hook on with the Angels after being cut loose by the Baltimore Orioles, needed four stitches to close a spike wound in his left heel when he collided with outfielder Rusty Torres. He will be out of action for at least a week.

Pitlock and Jones came up with sore elbows, joining Cuellar on the sidelines, while outfielder Don Baylor continues to be troubled by a pulled side muscle and infielder Bobby Grich has missed the first week of workouts with a sore back.

Kingman suffered an injury to his wallet as well as his left instep, which was bruised when he was struck by a delivery — get this — from the Mets' pitching machine.

Earlier, the club invoked the automatic renewal clause in Kingman's contract and cut his pay the allowable 20 per cent. For precedent-lovers, the Mets didn't cut Tom Seaver's salary when they invoked the renewal clause a year ago.

"We know the way it is now," said General Manager Joe McDonald. "If he (Kingman) doesn't sign, then why should he make the full money?"

McDonald also said the Mets had made their final offer to Kingman. "I've laid my cards on the table and I've made my offer," he said. "It's a firm offer and pretty strong."

"Well," replied Kingman, "he said the first offer they made me was reasonable. This is a reasonable final offer."

In recovery room news, pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Boston Red Sox, whose surgically mended Achilles tendon came up tender and puffy Wednesday, was much improved and able to do his scheduled running.

On the signing front, outfielder Ken Singleton agreed "in principle" to a five-year pact with the Orioles, the Cleveland Indians signed first baseman Boog Powell, the New York Yankees signed outfielder Lou Piniella, the Astros completed their 40-man roster by signing catcher Joe Ferguson, second baseman Rob Andrews and pitcher Doug Konieczny, and the Milwaukee Brewers came to terms with pitchers Bill Castro and Kevin Kobel.

Elsewhere, unsigned shortstop Dave Concepcion of the world champion Cincinnati Reds ended a deepening mystery as to his whereabouts when he checked into camp after missing the first day of workouts.

Cleveland General Manager Phil Seghi, fed up with the club's holdout situation, slapped a daily fine of $100 on absent designated hitter Rico Carty and renewed the contracts of pitcher Stan Perzankowski and infielder-outfielder Orlando Gonzalez at 20 per cent cuts.

And no baseball roundup would be complete if Charlie Finley weren't at money odds with one of his Oakland A's. This time it's reliever Jim Todd, one of 13 unsigned A's, who couldn't reach an agreement with Finley and said the owner told him any players who don't sign will be traded.

Concepcion arrives in camp, appears ready to sign

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — All-star shortstop Dave Concepcion, who had warned the Cincinnati Reds he was seeking a hefty pay boost, today said he is confident he will be back in uniform for the world champions.

"I think I'm going to sign," said the 28-year-old infielder after missing Thursday's opening day workouts.

Concepcion checked into the team hotel four hours after the first full squad drills concluded. His arrival snuffed speculation that the lanky Venezuelan, one of five unsigned Reds, was going to stage a holdout.

Club officials said efforts to reach Concepcion during the past two months were unsuccessful.

Concepcion said there was no reason for concern.

"Sparky (Reds manager Sparky Anderson) was not worried about me. He knows I'm the kind of guy who doesn't need too much spring training. I'm kind of skinny and never put any weight on," Concepcion said, explaining his reason for arriving late.

Concepcion said he planned to meet with Reds General Manager Dick Wagner today to discuss a long-term contract package. Concepcion downplayed a recent report that he was demanding a deal in excess of $1 million.

"I don't want to be a millionaire. I just want them to be fair with me," he said.

The seven-year veteran hit .281 in 1976 while leading the club in game-winning hits with 15.

An all-star game starter for the second straight year, Concepcion said he is looking for a contract spanning "at least two or three years."

He added, "the writers say I am the best shortstop in baseball. I think I deserve a good contract."

Concepcion said the salary structure has dramatically changed over the past year, due mainly to the bidding competition for free agents.

"Everything has gone up out of sight. The price of players, the cost of living, everything. I just rented a car for $250. Last year I paid $170," he said.

Forty-three of the club's 45 players invited to camp are now working out, including 13-year veteran Pete Rose, who remained unsigned.

Second baseman Joe Morgan, who last year became only the second player in history to win successive National League most valuable player awards, is due in Sunday. Centerfielder Cesar Geronimo was expected today.

Morgan is finishing winter college classes at his home in Oakland while Geronimo encountered visa problems in the Dominican Republic.

Wagner said negotiations for four of the unsigned players—pitchers Gary Nolan, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy and Concepcion—will resume next week when player agent Jerry Kapstein arrives.

DAVE CONCEPCION

Rose's attorney, Reuven Katz of Cincinnati, is also scheduled to meet with Reds officials next week.

Cavaliers upset Wake Forest

Virginia playing Cinderella again

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs are not always the survival of the fittest, as Virginia's Cavaliers proved last year.

Now it seems they want to prove it again this year.

That improbable circumstance surfaced Thursday night when the last-place Cavaliers upset second-seeded Wake Forest 59-57 and vaulted into tonight's AACC semifinals.

Virginia, of course, was the Cinderella team of the ACC last year. The Cavaliers finished sixth during the regular season but upset three teams, including regular-season champion North Carolina in the finals.

"We've come a long way," Virginia Coach Terry Holland said Thursday night, echoing a similar thought he expressed last season. "What happens tomorrow and the next day will tell you how far."

Virginia will play in tonight's semifinals against Clemson, an 82-74 victor over Duke Thursday night.

North Carolina, the regular-season champion, faces North Carolina State, which beat Maryland 82-72.

Three other leagues held playoff games Thursday night.

In the opening round of the Metro-7, Georgia Tech beat Florida State 72-67, Cincinnati trimmed St. Louis 76-68 and Memphis State whipped Tulane 94-80. In the Southwest Conference, Houston defeated Texas A&M 96-77 and Texas Tech stopped Baylor 66-57 in semifinal action. In the Big Eight semis, Missouri crushed Oklahoma 90-75 and Kansas State beat Kansas 80-67.

Elsewhere, Providence defeated Fairfield 44-31 and Holy Cross turned back Connecticut 89-77 in the New England Division of the ECAC playoffs and St. John's whipped Manhattan 73-64 and Seton Hall stopped Army 77-71 in the Metropolitan Division. The winners advance to Saturday's championship round, which will automatically qualify them for the NCAA playoffs.

In other games, third-ranked Michigan beat Illinois 87-72 and clinched a tie for the Big 10 championship and ninth-rated Minnesota edged Wisconsin 64-61.

Palmer eyes trade talk

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Palmer, the Baltimore Orioles' three-time American League Cy Young Award winner, was not happy about being at the opening day of training camp.

"This club stinks. They're lucky if they finish fourth. This field is in the worst shape I've ever seen it. If you're on a major league team, you ought to at least have a major league training facility," Palmer said Monday.

Then he said what was really bothering him.

"Management is being completely unrealistic about my contract and if they don't want to treat me fairly, then I don't want to stay here," Palmer told the Baltimore Sun.

Palmer said he was serious about wanting to renegotiate his contract with the Orioles and his preliminary request was for $1.5 million for five years.

"He (General Manager Hank Peters) was shocked at those numbers," Palmer said. The 31-year-old righthander admitted later that he might settle for about $260,000 per year.

Palmer now has a three-year contract, plus an option year.

Willie Mays in Angel camp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Say, hey, who is that in a California Angels' uniform?

Why, it is Willie Mays. Willie Mays Hinkens, that is.

The Angels' rookie not only is a sound-alike for the former great outfielder who played for the San Francisco Giants and New York Mets, but is a look-alike — judging from the way he hit Sunday.

Hinkens, a first baseman who was the 1976 Texas League home run champion at El Paso, hit a towering homer as the Angels held a full-scale workout at their Holtville, Calif., camp.

The blast highlighted a successful hitting drill, according to California Manager Norm Sherry.

Outfielder Joe Rudi, a celebrated free-agent acquisition in the off-season, made his spring training camp debut as Sherry welcomed 46 players to the workout.

Other spring training camps also were in full swing.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds, joined by a disatisfied Pete Rose, held their first workouts over the weekend. Rose, who has threatened to play out the option year of his contract, joined 29 pitchers and catchers. The only absentee at Tampa, Fla., was relief pitcher Pedro Borbon, who was granted permission to arrive late due to a family illness.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., outfielder Dave Kingman arrived at the New York Mets' camp just as Sunday's workout was ending. Kingman, the Mets' lone unsigned regular, refused to talk to anyone, including General Manager Joe McDonald or reporters.

Second baseman Phil Garner, embroiled in a contract dispute with Oakland owner Charles O. Finley, was the only prominent no-show at the A's camp in Mesa, Ariz.

CIRCLEVILLE SHOOTER — Sue Stevenson of Circleville puts up a shot in last night's tournament final at Miami Trace. Circleville beat Hillsboro in the final 47-36 while Madison Plains beat Washington C.H. in the consolation final, 47-38.

Circleville girls grab first

Circleville finished out its perfect league season with a first place showing at the Miami Trace girls basketball tournament last night.

The Tigers whipped a tough Hillsboro team 47-36 after trailing most of the game.

Madison Plains copped third place in the tourney by defeating Washington C.H. 47-38.

Hillsboro managed to tie Circleville after one quarter and then move ahead after halftime 22-20. But a late surge by the Tigers netted them 21 points in the fourth quarter, enough for an easy win.

Sue Radcliffe led Circleville with 15 points while Sue Stevenson chipped in with 12. Lisa Burns led Hillsboro with 18 markers while Sandy Zimmerman had 10.

A fourth quarter stumble by Court House enabled Madison Plains to take the nine-point win for third place.

After the score was knotted at 30-30, Plains doubled the Lions score in the final period to take the win.

Donna Gray led Plains with 16 points and Mary Schasser and Debbie Boggs each had 10. Sally Robinson was the only Lion in Double figures with 16 tallies.

Both county teams will move into sectional play in the coming week.

Washington C.H. will travel to Piketon High School to meet Portsmouth West at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Mar. 5.

Miami Trace will hit the road to Athens High School to play Lancaster on Tuesday, Mar. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

The 1977 sectional tournament finals will be a carbon copy of the 1976 edition with one slight adjustment. The game will be played at Paint Valley High School instead of Union High School. Last night, Waverly beat Hillsboro by a 70-62 score for its second consecutive trip to the Class AA sectional finals. Hillsboro would have won the game except for the fact that they went icy cold in the second quarter, managing only five points. The Indians shot two for 15 in the quarter for 13 per cent while Waverly was scoring 20 points and shooting 57 per cent.

Chuck Thompson led the Tigers in scoring with 20 points for the evening while Joe Davena scored 16 tallies and sophomore Robert Holsinger chipped in with 14. Stan Crace also hit double figures with 10 points.

Tim Fuller took his customary position as the leading scorer in the game for Hillsboro with 21 points. Tyler Woods also hit 13 points while Gary Larimer tossed in 11 points.

Waverly now advances to the finals against Washington C.H. In their last three meetings, the Blue Lions hold a 2-1 advantage including a 58-55 win over the Tigers earlier this season.

McDonald still says no

Kingman still after $3 mil.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — What do you do when a man walks into your office and demands $3 million? Without a gun, that is.
If you're Joe McDonald, general manager of the New York Mets baseball team, you don't faint immediately. You just lean back in your chair, look the big, rangy guy across the desk straight in the eye and reply: "Dave, you gotta be kidding."

Whereupon, the big, rangy guy, whose full name is David Arthur Kingman, doesn't crack a smile. "I'm serious," he says. "That's what I think I'm worth on the present baseball market."

So it goes — with a slight intrusion of literary license — in this familiar spring training base where the 6-foot-6, 210-pound outfielder with the grooved home run stroke is asking the biggest salary ever demanded by a Met player. "I can't disclose what he is asking," McDonald said. "It is considerably more than we can afford to pay."
Kingman more or less let the cat out of the bag himself and it's generally accepted that he is demanding $3 million stretched over a period of five years.

McDonald pulled a surprise Thursday by arbitrarily renewing Kingman's contract for the 1977 season, meaning that unless the big slugger comes to terms he will play out his option year with a 20 per cent cut in salary, becoming a free agent in 1978. Reportedly his last contract called for $90,000.

Kingman's case is unique. Whereas most players fling out their records in backing up demands for improved contracts, Kingman is, in effect, offering his talents on a lay away plan. It's not what he has done. It's what he will do.

"He tells me he thinks he will hit 60 home runs and will be a tremendous drawing card," McDonald said.

A combination pitcher-outfielder at the University of Southern California, Kingman brought a reputation of home run power, a weakness for strikeouts and unimpressive fielding ability when he came to the Mets two years ago from the Giants.

Last season he appeared on his way to a big home run year until he suffered a thumb injury in early July, being sidelined for more than a month. He hit 37 home runs and struck out 135 times.

"We realize his potential and gate appeal," McDonald said, "But there is no way we can pay him more than we pay Tom Seaver."

Seaver, maybe the best pitcher in baseball, is on the second year of a three-year contract totaling $700,000. He is one of 10 Mets making $100,000 or more on a $2 million club payroll.

Maybe Kingman would do better with a gun.

Bowling news

Tony Capuana of Bowland had announced the following spring tournaments to be held at the Washington C.H. bowling facility.

On April 2, the Southeastern Ohio Bowling Association will hold its annual All-American Youth eliminations. From three divisions, winners will advance to state competition with a chance at the national finals. Almost $50,000 will be awarded in scholarships in this tournament.

On April 9, the Proprietors Association Family Tournament will be held. A parent or legal guardian will bowl with their child in three age divisions. The winners will also advance to the state competition with a shot at the national finals in Washington, D.C.

And, on April 24, the Knights of Columbus will hold their junior division tournament. Further information on this tourney can be obtained at the desk at Bowland.

Capuana also stated that applications are now being taken for summer leagues.

Pokey's Baby wins

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Pokey's Baby sloshed to a 6-length victory Thursday night in the $2,700 featured eighth race in 1:16.1-5 and paid $39.20, $12.60 and $8.80.

Big Red O placed, $4.60 and $4.60 and On Exhibit, third, $11.80.

Attendance was 3,477 and the mutual pool totaled $442,719.

Kuhn approves sale; Lindblad to Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — The Paul Lindblad sale has been settled but the next round in the long-running feud between Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn may be just around the corner.

Thursday night, several hours after Kuhn approved Finley's recent $400,000 sale of relief pitcher Lindblad to the Texas Rangers, the Oakland owner unleashed another name-calling attack on the commissioner and dared him via telegram to veto any of the A's future deals.

"I'm working on deals every day," Finley told The Associated Press from his home in Chicago. "They might include players or they might include cash, it all depends. Nothing is immiment, but you never know with baseball deals. I might have something in the next few days."

Meanwhile, reliever Jim Todd, one of 13 unsigned A's, failed to reach a salary agreement with Finley and said the owner told him that any players who don't sign will be traded.

In approving the Lindblad sale, Kuhn said he was "seriously concerned that there may be a plan, developing or developed, to substantially liquidate the established talent of the Oakland club."

He said he would "scrutinize with great care" any deals which involve substantial cash payments to the A's and "will not hesitate to disapprove such assignments if I find that they are not in the best interests of baseball, and to take other action, either remedial or punitive, as the circumstances may warrant."

The decision was announced in a five-page release distributed by the commissioner's office to the media as well as "to the Oakland club and every other major league club." Kuhn was unavailable for comment.

Finley promptly fired off a lengthy telegram to Kuhn warning him that "any attempt by you to disapprove the sale or trade of a contract by Oakland made within the rules of baseball will be met by legal action once again filed against you."

Lions slate car caravan

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions have organized a car caravan for tomorrow evening's game against Waverly for the sectional tournament crown.

The caravan will be forming at the Washington Senior High School at 5:45 p.m. and will move out at 6 p.m. All fans are requested to wear blue and white to the game.

They'll Do It Every Time

THE BETTER HALF. By Barnes

Toland's Account of Hitler Is Compelling

ADOLF HITLER. By John Toland. Doubleday. 1,035 Pages. $14.95.

John Toland's "Adolf Hitler" attempts to make humanly believable a man whose deeds so horrified a generation that he is usually seen in inhuman distortion. The result is a compelling historical narrative that runs 897 pages plus notes and will leave many readers wishing it were longer.

There is no lack of material on the life and times of Adolf Hitler. Books, records and documents abound. On top of this, Toland lists interviews with more than 150 persons who knew Hitler or were close to him — his secretaries, doctors, associates and their families — to gain the personal insight that enriches the book. Many of the former Nazis interviewed were speaking out for the first time, persuaded that after 30 years it was time to give their version of events.

The well-known outline of Hitler's life does not change. And the bulk of the detail is not new. But Toland puts it together with the fine hand of a historian who won a Pulitzer Prize with his previous book, "The Rising Sun: The Decline and Fall of the Japanese Empire, 1896-45."

Against the background of Germany's political and economic chaos after World War I, Toland follows step by step Hitler's rise to control of the political party that he was originally assigned to observe as a low-ranking member of Germany's shrunken postwar armed forces.

His emergence as a hypnotic speaker who could sway huge crowds, hard to believe in retrospect, is documented by the comments of those who heard him at the struggling party meetings, before he had the impressive staging and mass hysteria that came once the party was rich and the nation in its control.

Toland calls Hitler "probably the greatest mover and shaker of the 20th century." Although it may have seemed so to many, Hitler did not just suddenly arrive at that peak from nowhere. One of the great merits of Toland's book is his tracing of Hitler's rise to a position of unequaled power.

With a wealth of evidence Toland buries the myth that Hitler did not know of the death camps and extermination of six million Jews and would have stopped the inhuman program had he not been duped by underlings. Toland establishes that Hitler was the author of the program and at considerable sacrifice and cost in the face of a hopeless war continued his maniacal, personal ambition to rid Europe of Jews.

If the book has a fault, it is that Hitler's years in power are less believable than his rise to power. On the larger international platform on which Hitler now played, his own personal contribution is sometimes lost. Toland keeps in tight grasp the world political developments and indulges curiosity about such personal details as the man's health and girl friends, but somewhere we miss just how Hitler achieved what he did, especially in those early years in office.

Just what was his personal role in bringing economic order out of chaos, in reorganizing German life and raising a prostrate nation to pride and position and a degree of wealth that impressed Olympic visitors in 1936? These are the achievements that prompt Toland to observe, "If Hitler had died in 1937 on the fourth anniversary of his coming to power — the great economic crisis notwithstanding — he would undoubtedly have gone down as one of the greatest figures in German history."

We are told Hitler had a photographic memory, rapid grasp of written reports and of situations, and acted sometimes on impulse and sometimes with great patience. But the details of how he ran things in those crucial years are missing.

It can only be a compliment to such a big book to ask for more.

Economic illiterates in U.S.?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It may be the natural venting of frustration, or renewed hope, or it might be the result of canned speeches by business groups, but a certain line of thinking is becoming more visible.

It goes like this: We are a nation of economic illiterates who are sailing our system down the drain and not even realizing we are doing so. We are soiling our own nests, undermining our own futures, squandering our own fortunes.

The primary object of this ire is government spending for projects that might not produce any social good, might not result in any noticeable improvement in economic conditions and might, quite likely will, impinge on the freedom of private enterprise.

Scorned most in this script are congressmen who attempt to win votes by spending public funds. Only slightly less disdained are those elected leaders who, through ignorance, are unaware of the consequences of budget deficits.

Often blamed as the source of economic illiteracy are high school and college teachers, and the school systems themselves.

Held before the public as the awful penalty for these abuses is Britain, or as is sometimes suggested, the economic corpse of that nation, swinging from a gallows run by socialists.

With variations in style, we are always cautioned in the script that time is short and that fate doesn't always provide a second chance. With the fire of a fundamentalist, we are warned to change before it is too late.

The specifics are that we are destroying the job-creating mechanism, transferring power to a burdensome government, stifling the creative and innovative process, and removing the controls that free markets impose.

We are told that government interference in the marketplace has led to the natural gas shortage, to a reversal of incentives that makes for disinvestment, and to a loss of personal responsibility.

Proponents of the line of thinking maintain that the smothering of the job-creating machinery creates an opportunity for government to jump into the breach in an attempt to "rescue" people from its own disaster.

Jobs, we are told, take captive investments. Money must be saved by people and institutions and corporations interested in making a better future, and that capital then must be invested in better plants, more efficient equipment.

A bigger production plant permits greater output and a greater number of jobs. An efficient plant brings down the cost of production, permitting everyone to benefit from a less inflated environment.

Whatever the reasons, we are seeing and hearing more of this thinking today, and there's a good chance it is attracting a larger audience than it might have won several years ago.

Why? Perhaps people have seen the consequences of spending money that doesn't exist, of social programs that fail to produce social good, of a government that seeks and fails to produce economic miracles.

This is the conservative line. It is an old, old line that is being given a vigorous tug these days, and it could be hauling in believers if it isn't too frayed by friction, past and present.

Clark appointed Weir assistant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John W. Clark has been appointed special assistant to Department of Transportation Director David Weir.

As special assistant he will be responsible for the coordination of special projects for the director's office, Weir said Thursday.

Clark will coordinate with the Turnpike Commission the study of necessary requirements for turning the turnpike over to the state.

Clark, 44, has been with the department since 1964.

Army restores order in Mexican outbreak

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — The army has restored order in the south Mexican state of Oaxaca after 10 days of clashes between police and demonstrating students, townspeople and landless Indians in which at least 16 persons were killed.

The state governor-opposed by the students, Manuel Zarate Aquino, took a leave of absence "in order not to hurt my people," and there were indications that a 13-month dispute which divided the state university into two factions might be settled.

Zarate Aquino was replaced as governor by Gen. Eliseo Jimenez Ruiz, who commanded the military operation two years ago in which the country's most wanted guerrilla, Lucio Cabanas, was killed.

Defense Secretary Felix Galvan Lopez ordered the troops in Thursday after police the night before battled student marchers in the state capital demanding the ouster of the governor.

A demonstrator was killed, and 19 other persons were injured.

Earlier, the police had battled with Indian peasants armed with machetes Monday night in the village of Montenegro Lalana and on Feb. 22 with townspeople in the town of Juchitan demanding the release of student demonstrators for land reform. At least 15 persons were killed in those clashes.

Oaxaca's business community staged a two-day strike Monday and Tuesday, demonstrating support for the governor and demanding strong measures to insure that the tourist trade was not scared off. The students took to the streets for anti-government demonstrations, and the police went into action frequently to scatter them.

The violence stemmed from more than a year of dissension at the local university. It began in January 1976 when a student faction refused to recognize the appointment of Guillermo Garcia Manzano as rector.

Courts

CIVIL SUITS FILED

Pennington Brothers, Inc. bread company, 1100 Clinton Ave., was named in three civil court suits filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Two of the suits involve the firing of two employees in 1974. The third suit requests workmen's compensation benefits.

Charles W. Dennis, 727 S. North St., named the Bakers' and Confectionery Workers' International Union Local 57 as co-defendant in his suit against the bakery.

Dennis alleges that he was wrongfully fired by the bakery on July 10, 1974. He also accused the bakery of giving false and defamatory information to his prospective employers following his firing.

The former shipping clerk at the bakery is asking for $142,000 in damages from Pennington Brothers, Inc.

He is asking for an additional $30,000 in damages from the union on the grounds that the union did not provide adequate representation for him when he was fired.

John F. Buck, 431 Fift St., filed a similar suit, but he did not name the union as a co-defendant.

Buck, who was a shipping clerk at the bakery and who was fired July 10, 1974, is also asking for $142,000 in damages.

The third suit was filed by Cora M. Allen, 1008 John St., as a widow-claimant of her husband Roger S. Allen.

Her husband, who died in 1975, was employed by Pennington Brothers Inc. She claims that he was injured in 1963 while at work and the injuries, a backstrain, were a direct cause of death.

Her efforts to receive workmen's compensation benefits have been denied by the Industrial Commission of Ohio. That commission along with Robert Daugherty, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workman's Compensation, were also named in the suit.

She is requesting the right to participate in the benefits provided by workmen's compensation.

Driver cited in two-car mishap

Local woman hurt in crash

An 18-year-old Washington C.H. woman was injured in a two-car accident early Friday morning.

Deborah S. Joseph, 18, of 809 Conley Court, was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released for a scalp laceration. The injury required four stitches.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that the Joseph auto was turning right onto Glenn Avenue from Columbus Avenue at 12:06 a.m., when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Everett G. Stone, 54, of 517 Third Street.

Stone told police officers that he didn't see any taillights on the Joseph auto before the collision. The impact of the crash had knocked loose the battery cables of the Joseph auto. When police officers connected the battery cables following the mishap, the taillights were working. Stone was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

David Joseph, an eight-month-old passenger, was not injured in the accident, according to police.

Washington C.H. police officers also investigated a three-car mishap at 10:58 p.m. Thursday on Main Street. Mona L. Mershon, 54, of 1299 Dayton Ave., was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol and reckless operation after her car reportedly struck two parked cars.

The parked cars were owned by Rhonda R. Lute, 1126 Gregg St., and Agnes P. Pennewitt of Wilmington.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department investigated two minor traffic accidents Thursday.

At 3:14 p.m., a car driven by Harry H. Campbell, 64, of 3802 Bush Road, struck a parked car owned by Marilyn Dunn, 7268 Ohio 753-SE, on the Miami Trace High School parking lot.

At 8:30 p.m., Gary Rayburn, 6640 Greenfield-Sabina Road, told sheriff's deputies that a car had struck his mailbox and left the scene.
